EIGHT ADDITIONAL POSTAL CARRIERS FOR GLENDALE

Washington Grants Request Of Postmaster Jackson For More Helpers

Indications that the name and fame of Glendale have spread to the confines of the postal department at Washington are evidenced in a communication just received from the postmaster general, stating that he has seen fit to grant the request made by Postmaster D. Ripley Jackson for an improved clerk and carrier service in Glendale.

The Washington advice, which was received yesterday, is said by Postmaster Jackson to be one of the most valuable Christmas presents consigned to his office this year.

In addition to adding eight regular carriers to local postal routes, Postmaster Jackson states that the Washington order will benefit local business interests in that the local delivery service will be greatly augmented by the extra carriers.

Better Mail Service

The order is likewise important from a civic point of view, he asserts, because the newly-appointed carriers will travel routes in services already established. In other words, the new men will participate in delivering mail that heretofore has been handled by a smaller number of carriers, he explained.

Heretofore, the carrier districts in Glendale had been divided into nineteen districts. With the addition of the nine new men Postmaster Jackson says the foregoing routes will be re-divided into twenty-seven routes. The effect that this will have on the delivery of mail can readily be seen, he states.

Get Regular Work

The new carriers who have been given regular carrier "berths" have been working out of the local postoffice as "extras" during the Christmas rush. They are:

A. S. Wood, J. H. Willock, R. S. Hall, C. J. Bielefeldt, Lloyd Richard, George P. Brady, Paul Irmischer, Roy A. Blodgett and V. H. Hoyer.

Postmaster Jackson emphasized that nothing was said in the Washington advice regarding an improved mail "pickup" service in the residential districts of Glendale. Resolution calling for the foregoing service were recently passed by local civic organizations.

NEVER ANYTHING LIKE IT

Streets and stores of Glendale all day Saturday exhibited the appearance of a great metropolitan city. In spite of all that had been said about doing Christmas shopping early, thousands of snappy buyers were in stores until late in the evening, making selections without the assistance of clerks, wrapping up goods for themselves, inquiring the price and handing the cashier the money. Brand Blvd. and Broadway, although streets of unusual width, were packed full of automobiles, and the side streets for many blocks out were filled with autos parked, while their owners were making purchases at the nearest stores. The "Buy in Glendale" spirit was in evidence everywhere. Business men of Glendale today expressed their appreciation of the patronage of loyal Glendale people. Many stated the Christmas trade had established a new record. It is positive the crowds were never equaled. Automobiles went in lines of three along Brand boulevard. In the business districts sidewalks were filled with people. Standing room was at a premium in the different stores. Clerks could not handle the crowds and the buyers had lots of fun waiting upon themselves. It was a big night in Glendale—never anything like it before. "Buy in Glendale." They did!

RAILROAD TRAFFIC IS APPROACHING RECORD LEVELS

Congestion of Lines Now Serious, Says President Of Penn. System

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—Railroad traffic in the United States is near to the level of high records and congestion has created a serious situation, according to Samuel Rea, president of the Pennsylvania system, who made public a New Year statement today.

"The railroads of the United States, at the close of an eventful year, face an array of unusual and in some respects unprecedented difficulties," he said.

"It is important that the facts of the situation be thoroughly thrashed by shippers, travelers and the public generally.

"Since the latter part of 1921 there has been a reversal of business conditions in America and with all the hard knocks it is a change for the better. From extreme dullness we have rapidly advanced to a point where railroad traffic is close to record levels.

Congestion Exists

"To handle that rush of traffic is more difficult now than during the war, when individual conveniences and advantage were patriotically sacrificed. Much congestion exists which I trust will be short lived and many emergency measures are being used to relieve the situation. That they are accomplishing results is indicated by the fact that the freight car shortage, though continuing to be serious, has been reduced in the last few weeks."

According to Rea, the immediate cause of congestion has been:

1—Resumption of coal mining after the suspension of the spring and summer.

2—The flood of general business, partly to restore long existing shortages due to the war and partly coming from revival in lines of trade curtailed by the coal strike.

3—The enormous crops of the present year which in many cases break all previous records.

4—Inability of the railroads during the depression in 1921 to earn enough to maintain all cars and engines.

5—The general railroad shopmen's strike of last summer.

Cannot Expect Service

"You cannot dam the current of millions of coal and crops and industrial output for months," Rea aded, "deal with the bad condition of equipment following the release of railroads from federal control and the poor earnings of the 1921 and go through a shopmen's strike and still expect transportation service to be satisfactory, though railroad men are struggling to make it so."

'WET' WAITER LOSES JOB IN SENATE RESTAURANT

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—The first blow to rid the capital of alleged bootleggers was struck today by Senator Curtis, Republican, of Kansas, chairman of the senate rules committee, when he ordered a negro waiter discharged from the senate restaurant. The waiter, Curtis said, had dropped a bottle of strong smelling hootch on the floor of the restaurant last Saturday. Curtis is now searching for the person—who may be even a senator—for whom the whiskey was intended.

HURRICANE DOES HEAVY DAMAGE TO SHIPPING

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—The worst hurricane that has swept the North Atlantic in many years was abating today after causing terrific damage to shipping. Steamship lines reported that all vessels were delayed, but that none was missing. The belated steamships were reporting by wireless. Three vessels were so badly battered they will have to be refitted before they can set out for the return voyage. They are the Cedric, Seeland and the United States. Reports of the 100-mile-an-hour gale that lashed the ocean into mountainous waves led to fears that some vessels had been lost.

MAN FALLS 200 FEET IN AUTO, BUT WILL RECOVER

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 26.—After hurdling from an Elysian park cliff in an automobile, following a collision with another car and plunging end over end through the air to the floor of a canyon 200 feet below, a man identified by the police as Henry Otterbein, will live, surgeons at the county hospital said today. Search for a companion believed to have been in the machine with Otterbein when officers found a woman's coat in the rear seat of the wrecked car was abandoned today, when Fred G. Firman, who drove the other automobile, said he was certain no one accompanied the accident victim.

YEGGMEN MAKE ESCAPE WITH 600 POUND SAFE

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 26.—Breaking into two Los Angeles business houses early today yeggmen stole a 600 pound safe and blew open another with nitro-glycerin, escaping with loot estimated at $2000, according to the police. The first robbery reported was that of a floral company in West Seventh street where the yeggmen gained entrance by cutting the pane of a back window. Unable to work the combination of the safe the thieves blew it open with a charge. In the second robbery, that of A. J. Nakazamo, East Fifth street restaurant owner, the burglars "jimmied" open a side door and carried the 600 pound safe away in a truck. Each safe was declared to have been robbed of $1000.

GERMANY'S RULERS PROPOSE NEW PEACE PACT

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—The new German government, headed by Dr. Wilhelm Cuno, has formally proposed to the principal world powers a new peace pact, built out of the ashes of the world war and designed to maintain the peace of Europe for the next thirty years by mutual agreement, it was learned authoritatively here today. Germany has proposed in effect that Great Britain, France, Italy and Germany herself enter into a four-power pact to observe and preserve for the next thirty years European boundaries as they exist today. While not a direct party to the proposed pact, Germany has laid the proposition before the United States government for approval, and, in fact, is believed to have asked the American government to act in an intermediary capacity in presenting the proposition to the chancellories in London, Paris and Rome, according to information obtained here today. The full details of the German proposition were not obtained here today, nor could it be learned whether the United States has actually consented to approach the chief European powers on the proposition, but officials displayed a familiarity with the entire affair.

RESERVATIONS TO BORAH'S ECONOMIC MEETING

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—A flood of reservations today threatened to engulf Senator Borah's proposal for an international economic and disarmament conference as Senator Lodge and other Republican leaders sought to calm the angry verbal tempest it has already aroused. Following a series of conferences held by administration spokesmen it was stated Lodge and his associates might be willing to accept the Borah plan as an amendment to the pending navy supply bill provided he, in turn, agreed to the reservations they were considering. Enough of the probable nature of these reservations was conveyed to Borah and other senators standing with him to convince them they would be "destructive" of his proposal, and reduce it to a mere declaration of policy by the senate regarding the German reparations muddle without making it mandatory on the administration to summon such a conference. Borah said today he was being flooded with communications from outside the senate urging him to press the adoption of his proposal and expressing the warmest approval of it. He explained he was seeking a practical solution of the European economic and financial crisis which, in his judgment, is imperilling the peace of the world, and the welfare of the American people, as well as the nations overseas. He was willing to accept any substitute for his plan provided it would accomplish the purpose for which his proposal was intended.

THIS CITY HOLDS FIRST COMMUNITY CELEBRATION

Decorated Tree at High School Grounds Presents Impressive Sight

Glendale observed Christmas last night with its first Community Service Christmas tree.

While the half moon beamed benignly through the clear, peppy atmosphere and the colored lights on the large pine tree twinkled a reply, several thousand people gathered in front of the Glendale Union high school and joined in singing carols—with the spirit of Christmas.

A sextette of Santa Claus directed the distribution of sacks of candy to the boys and girls at the close of the program. Those acting in this capacity were James M. Rhoades, William Hunter, R. M. Taylor, H. W. Yarick, George H. Moore and George E. Jeffries. Altogether more than 2000 packages of candy were on hand and a number of kiddies left with bulging pockets.

Harry Girard, who takes a keen interest in community activities of this kind, acted as master of ceremonies.

Orchestra Opens Program

The high school orchestra, which opened the program, was directed by Mrs. Dora L. Gibson, head of the music department of Glendale Union high school. A number of the regular players found it impossible to be present but the orchestra was augmented by a number of alumni musicians including William Bode and Forrest Jordon, violins; Miss Veda Knapp, double bass; Lloyd Knapp, cello, and Lawrence Knapp, clarinet. The orchestra played two selections, Handel's "Largo" and Gounod's "Nazareth."

A large male choir representing the men's clubs of Glendale were grouped about the high school steps. Led by Mr. Girard, they sang, "God Rest You Merry Gentlemen" and "O, Come All Ye Faithful."

Display Patriotism

A patriotic tableau marked the climax to the program. While Emil O. Kiefer, former commander of the local post of the American legion, raised the flag, Cosmo Salano, in a sailor's uniform, and Dan Heald and Clarence Edwards in overseas uniforms symbolized the American legion, which is composed of men who have served their country in active service. Robert Hatch, Dallas Kalbaugh, Robert Eastman and Horace Brown, as boy scouts symbolized the boyhood of United States—ever ready to spring to the defense of their country.

Mayor Spencer Robinson's voice rang out in the tones of Neidliner's "Birthday of a King."

Community singing was led by Alexander Stewart, representative of Community Service. All present joined in singing "Joy to the World," "America" and "The Star Spangled Banner."

The boys' glee club of the high school were led by Mrs. Charles A. Parker in a Christmas song.

Chorus Takes Part

Church choirs took a large part in the program. The Madrigal club and the choir of St. Mark's Episcopal church united in singing a Christmas hymn of the Seventeenth century. They were led by Mrs. C. A. Parker.

"Silent Night" was sung by the choir of the First Methodist church, directed by Miss Isabel Isgrig.

Howard E. Cavanah led a quartet of the Congregational church in the singing of "Nativity."

A quartet from the Presbyterian church, led by Mrs. Fannie Marple Retts, sang several selections.

Col. James W. Everington, general chairman of the affair, considers the celebration a fitting finale to Christmas day, and expressed a wish that it might become an annual affair—as a means of promoting neighborliness and community spirit.

Four Brothers in Christmas Reunion

The Christmas celebration was a particularly happy one at the Edwin Cleophas home at 337 North Central avenue, featured as it was by a reunion of Mr. Cleophas and his three brothers. It was the first Christmas the four brothers have enjoyed together since they were at home in Beloit, Wisconsin.

Mrs. Cleophas and her daughter, Miss Gertrude, had arranged a large Christmas tree, and an attractive table for the 3 o'clock dinner.

The company included Halver Cleophas of Glendale and his daughters, Mrs. Abbie Solberg and her husband and daughter Lucile, of Glendale, Mrs. Agnes Holte and her husband and two children of Los Angeles, and his son, Charles Cleophas and wife and son of Glendale; Ira Cleophas and wife, who arrived recently from Beloit, Wis., to winter in Southern California; Cleth Cleophas, who arrived recently from Iowa for an indefinite stay in California, and the host and hostess and their daughter.

Tableaux Feature of Program at Church

Christmas exercises of the St. Mark's Episcopal Sunday school were celebrated at the church Friday night by a very interesting program that drew the largest crowd ever accommodated in the Sunday school room.

One of the features of this program was a series of three tableaux by the high school girls of Mrs. Leroy Bosserman's class, assisted by the intermediate boys of W. L. Walker's class. These tableaux depicted "Nativity," "The Shepherd" and "The Three Wise Men."

Miss Olive Taylor's intermediate girls presented a sketch entitled "Christmas In Other Lands," and the kindergarten kiddies under Mrs. John Tate sang several selections.

Santa Claus was there and had a Christmas bag for every child.

Gibson of 1321 North Maryland avenue for their co-operation in arranging the program for the Community Service Christmas tree.

Christmas Program At Baptist Church

The old-fashioned Christmas announced by the First Baptist Sunday school for last Friday night proved to be all that those words imply. Sunday school and church members and their friends gathered in the church auditorium around a big tree and enjoyed a program.

The program was orchestral music, congregational singing, reading of the Christmas story from Luke by R. L. Kent, prayer by Rev. Ernest E. Ford, songs by the primary, beginners and junior departments, piano solo by Donald Bentley, exercise by Mrs. Hoskins' class of girls.

Presbyterian Church To Give Reception

One of the important festivities of the holiday week will be the reception given by the wives of the pastors and elders of the First Presbyterian church, from 2 to 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon in the church parlors. The reception is to honor the women who have joined the church during the year 1922, of whom there are more than 100.

A unique part of the program will be the "cooperative stunt entertainment." Each one of the guests will assist in presenting a variety program. This will be managed by dividing the honorees into twelve groups, according to the date of their birthday anniversaries.

After each guest has been properly registered, they will appoint a stage manager to direct them and then each group will entertain all of the others. A surprise has been planned for the musical part of the program.

Serving the refreshments will be Mrs. John Horsch, president of the society; the pastor's wife, Mrs. W. E. Edmonds; the assistant pastor's wife, Mrs. Louis Tinning, and Mesdames W. J. Clendenin, M. P. Harrison, J. E. Colvin, R. P. Isitt, J. A. Newton, G. G. Lemon, W. G. Boyd, H. H. Schumaker, H. M. Stadt, Howard Brown, H. L. Finlay, W. A. Horne, George McDill, G. F. Snyder, D. L. Foster and Rex Kelley.

Uncle John Says--

Well, Christmas is over and now we all got to turn our attention to makin' good resolutions for the New Year. Me and Mary are goin' to make the same one we made last year and we kep' it, too. We resolved to stick by our home town and patronize our Glendale store keepers and so help Glendale to be a bigger and a better city, though it suits Mary and me to a T right now.

STEAL CHRISTMAS GIFTS AS COUPLE ARE ASLEEP

Presents and Other Valuables to Amount of $4000 Are Gone

Mr. and Mrs. M. P. Morrison of Palm drive and Mountain avenue, Alta, Canada, are confident that it was not Santa Claus that entered their home Christmas eve shortly before or after midnight, looted their boudoir while they were soundly sleeping and departed with Christmas presents and other valuables amounting to $4,000.

The Morrisons were alone in the house and did not discover the robbery until Christmas morning, when they awoke to find that a $1000 fur piece belonging to Mrs. Morrison, $70 from Mr. Morrison's pockets, jewelry and numerous Christmas presents had been stolen while they slept.

How or when the thief or thieves entered their home and robbed their room is not known. According to reports, the thief or thieves left no clue as to identity and officers working on the case are doubtful of tracing the guilty parties.

New Year's morning a party of young people will attend the Tournament of Roses. In the afternoon they will go to the football game and then they will go to the Long residence for dinner.

Bennett Whitney of South Pasadena; Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Carscalles and Vera and Edgar Carscalles of Gardena; George Hummell of Redondo, and Mrs. Ella Shippe and daughters, Mae and Ferne of Tilden, Neb.

A pleasure of the after-dinner hour was the following toast written and read by Mr. Hanson:

CHRISTMAS, 1922

Now I have a hunch this whole darn bunch
Is not as hungry as it was
A while ago—for well we know
The turkeys are a total loss;
And other things have taken wings
From off this table here,
For while we've chatted, we've sure been at it,
As from this wreckage 'twould appear.
And now, you bet, we will forget
The carnage we have wrought,
For what matters it, as a great big bit
Of the Christmas spirit we have caught;
And so without boast, we humbly toast
And cheer the other fellow on.
And without bribe, we greet our tribe—
A Merry Christmas everyone.

L. W. Fisher Robbed At Point of Gun

A grudge against John D. Rockefeller may have inspired the robbery of the Standard Oil filling station at Colorado street and San Fernando road Saturday night.

L. W. Fisher was just about to lock up the establishment when two men in an Essex bearing Texas license 18663 drove up from the north.

After Mr. Fisher had supplied the tank of their car with gasoline, he was held up and compelled to open the cash register. This contained $23.19 which was taken.

Mr. Fisher was compelled to get into the car and was taken north on San Fernando road, about half a mile. He reported the hold-up immediately to the local police department.

Attorney Alfred W. Hare of Los Angeles, appeared in Judge Harold Ide Cruzan's court at Eagle Rock Saturday morning for W. K. Cowan, Jr., when the latter's case was called, and asked for a continuance until after the holidays.

As the docket was rather heavy Judge Cruzan granted the request and fixed January 6 as the date. The young man is charged by Traffic Officer Williams with having driven through the twenty mile zone at thirty-five miles an hour.

Attorney Hare intimated he might call for a jury trial. Also that he might ask for a change of venue.

Poor German Left Rich U. S. Legacy

BERLIN—A legacy of $30,000 has fallen to John Bagensky, a laborer, eking out a scanty living with his wife and six children in a working men's settlement near the Rheuish city of Borkum.

Bagensky's elder brother, a hotel keeper living in St. Louis, died recently without heirs, bequeathing his whole fortune to his brother in Germany, who had believed him dead, not having heard from him for more than thirty years, since the older brother had emigrated to the States.

At the present rate of exchange the inherited fortune, even after deducting the heavy toll of American and German inheritance taxes, turns the poor laborer overnight into a mark multi-millionaire.

Bagensky is going to start a large contracting business, with the assistance of his eldest son, who is a trained master builder.

Eagle Rock Locals
POSSIBLY YOU

Business houses in Eagle Rock closed their stores from Saturday evening until Tuesday morning. The officials at the city hall also took a much-needed rest from Saturday noon until this morning, traffic officers being the exception.

The board of trustees of Eagle Rock are expected to hold their weekly meeting tonight, the date of the usual meeting coming on Christmas.

W. J. Rennacker, who gave the traffic officers of Eagle Rock considerable trouble ten days ago by not being where he was supposed to be, and in failing to come into court when he was ordered by his "honor," and was later given fifteen days for speeding, was granted a parole by Judge Cruzan Saturday last as a Christmas gift Rennacher left for the northern part of the state with his father.

Appropriate Christmas services were held at each of the churches in Eagle Rock Sunday morning and evening. The Methodist, Presbyterian, Congregational and Church of Christ each gave a special musical program. Other organizations had prepared trees and programs.

An Oldsmobile Six touring car was reported stolen from 215 Eagle avenue, Eagle Rock, at 6:15 Monday evening. Officers Sprague and Cates had the car located by 10 o'clock. The supposition is that it was taken by joy riders and abandoned when the gas gave out. It was owned by C. E. Green of Friat, Fresno county.

The next meeting of the Thursday Morning Music club will be held at the home of Mrs. W. R. Johnston, at the corner of Rock Glen avenue and Ellis on January 4.

Sol Gans, who dispenses good things to eat at the corner of Central and Colorado, opened his place of business on a much larger scale this corning. He has made room for twice as many customers and will not close his doors until near midnight.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Skinner and two children of Long Beach, were Christmas dinner guests of Mrs. Skinner's sister, Mrs. J. E. Argus and family of 535 East Hill avenue.

Members of the Parent-Teacher association of Eagle Rock were kept at a frantic pace Saturday afternoon and evening answering the last S. O. S. calls for Christmas cheer for the needy. Many little tots and some not so little were given the glad hand and a Christmas package at the last moment.

Mrs. Georgia Sherin and daughter, Miss Helen, of Pomona, arrived Saturday evening to spend Christmas with Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Sherin of Pomona avenue. They returned to their home this (Tuesday) morning.

Mr. Ed Pflug of North Acacia, Eagle Rock, was taken to the Golden Gate hospital in Glendale Saturday last suffering with an acute attack of tonsilitis.

A Ford sedan and an Oldsmobile came together with a crash at the intersection of Central and Colorado boulevard Saturday last about 4 p. m. None of the occupants of the cars were injured, but the Ford registered great distress, having lost a front wheel, considerable paint and the everyday use of a fender.

AUTO WITH SPEED GLANDS TOO FAST FOR OWNER

T. H. Beal Tells Court Car Won't Go Slower Than 75 Miles an Hour

"Your story reminds me of the colored gentleman who testified that his car was going at seventy-five instead of seventy miles an hour, as charged, when brought before the court for sentence," said Judge Ide Cruzan in hearing the testimony offered by T. H. Beal in defense of his violations of the state of California traffic laws Saturday at Eagle Rock. "This particular colored man said it couldn't go slower than that because it had Packard glands."

Beal admitted that his car was a combination of Chevrolet, Metz and Overland, that he had changed plates and had no operator's license. Judge Cruzan fined him two fives and a ten on three separate counts, and forbade him getting into the car again until he had secured the proper plates.

JUDGE DISMISSES NEW ARRIVAL IN CALIFORNIA

Motorist Tells Court He Is Unfamiliar With State Traffic Laws

W. L. Singleton was dismissed with a reprimand when he appeared in the traffic court at Eagle Rock Saturday morning charged with driving on the wrong side of the street and in not carrying his operator's license.

Mr. Singleton admitted he was not familiar with the traffic laws of California and had unintentionally violated some of the chapters.

In emphasizing the fact that a thorough knowledge was essential, Judge Cruzan told the defendant that if he was struck by another car going at eighty miles an hour while he was on the wrong side of the street, he would absolutely have no recourse in law. For his own protection and for the protection of others, Judge Cruzan told him he should familiarize himself with the requirements.

HOLLYWOOD GIRL ASSESSED FINE FOR SPEEDING

Miss P. Young Tells Judge Cruzan She Is Accustomed To Taking Chances

Miss Pearl Young of the Chance Producing company of Hollywood, admitted in traffic court, Eagle Rock Saturday that she is accustomed to taking chances on occasions.

She was apprehended by Traffic Officer Williams some ten days ago as she was leisurely coasting through the city at a forbidden rate of speed. She pleaded guilty to the charge of taking a chance with the speed law and was asked to contribute five dollars to the court. "The other ten," said Judge Cruzan, "you may apply on Christmas cheer," which Miss Chance agreed was just about the proper thing under the circumstances.

L. A. Woman Hurt In Auto Accident

Brown of 1691 Cordova street, Los Angeles, was taken to the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital about 4 o'clock on Sunday afternoon with slight injuries following an automobile collision at the intersection of Central ave. and Harvard street. Woman Who Feared Food Starves Self

RENO.—A fast of fifty days, self-imposed, resulted in the death of Mrs. Pearl A. Cochran, who labored under the hallucination that food would hasten her end, according to physicians in charge. She took no food until the forty-ninth day, and expelled that from her mouth. Her weight at the end was only sixty pounds. She was treated at state and county hospitals and private medical institutions. At one time an insanity complaint was signed against her at her own request. Her two children were cared for at the orphan home in Carson City.

SHANGHAI TO GET BIG RADIO PLANT

U. S. Firm Plans to Spend 13 Million Dollars on The Largest Station

By EDNA LEE BOOKER
For International News Service.

SHANGHAI—The construction of high-powered radio stations in China at a cost of $13,000,000, which will insure for the first time complete American control of wireless communication in the great trade centers of China, will be begun immediately.

The largest, most efficient and most completely equipped wireless station in the world will be erected in Shanghai under the personal direction of R. P. Schwerin, president of the Federal Telegraph company of Delaware and of California, who, with expert United States engineers, has arrived in Shanghai. The work will be begun this month, and, given normal conditions, the huge plant will be in operation in another seventeen or eighteen months.

Gigantic Plant

Astonishing figures, indicating the size and power of the plant, were given by Schwerin at a meeting of the Shanghai Rotary Club.

In speaking of the new plant, Schwerin gave a description of its outstanding features and told of the formation of the group which is promoting it.

According to Schwerin, the American Radio corporation purchased the British Marconi interests and united them with the American Marconi to establish the new firm. The combined organization then united with the Federal company of California, forming the new Delaware company, which will build stations at Shanghai, Harbin, Peking and Canton.

The Radio corporation is made up of the General Electric, Western Electric, International Wireless, American, International and Telegraph company, and the inventions and improvements of all of these companies have been placed at the disposal of the Federal Telegraph company of Delaware.

The Shanghai station, according to Schwerin, will occupy one square mile of land. There will be six supported masts, each 1000 feet in height. The power house will be equipped to generate 2500 kilowatts, making possible a radio frequency of 20,000 cycles per second from a voltage of 120,000. There will be two 1000 kilowatt Federal transmitters. Wave sound lengths will travel from the new plant at the rate of 160,000 feet per second.

The new plants will be operated by the Federal company until the Chinese government can pay for the stations and take them over.

Business men and residents of the Far East are rejoicing over the new radio plant, as it means that in a comparatively short time China will be connected with the other countries of the world by wireless.

Several hundred Glendalians attended the drawing.

GLORY COMES BY GRACE, IS CLAIM

Rev. W. E. Edmonds Gives Christmas Sermon on Sunday Morning

A musical prelude, during which a harp solo was played by Miss Marjorie Jean Bailey and violin selection by Miss Esther Gleiss, preceded Rev. W. E. Edmond's Christmas sermon Sunday morning at the Presbyterian church.

"We will best glorify God by letting Him glorify Himself in us," he remarked. "We cannot add to His majesty and greatness but we can acknowledge them. And we can let Him enter into us and shine forth from us.

"Paul said that those who witnessed his wonderful conversion 'glorified God in me.' Men of today can glorify God by surrendering to Him and letting men see the power of His grace to save and keep. We will glorify God not by showing how strong or holy we are, but what He can do with poor, weak mortals.

"The glory that God is preparing for us must begin in us, in our earthly experience. The Lord will give grace and glory. The glory comes through the grace and must begin here below."

O. Andresen Advised Of Parent's Death

Olaf W. Andresen, of the J. A. Newton Electric company, received the sad news today of the death of his father, H. J. Andresen, at Elgin, Ill., early this morning. Details of the death of his father were lacking, but Mr. Andresen attributed it to some sudden sickness as his father had been in good health and regularly attending his duties at the Elgin National Watch company, where he had been in continuous service for thirty-three years. The elder Andresen leaves a family of seven grown boys scattered throughout the United States. He was in his early seventies at the time of his death.

USE BRAIN WAVES TO BENEFIT DUMB

Electrified Headgear Makes 'Dunce' Intellectual, Expert Claims

By LUTHER A. HUSTON
For International News Service.

LONDON—The "dunce cap" of the future may become a symbol of intellectual advancement rather than the crown of educational opprobrium.

By the simple process of electrification the headgear that once was an indication of stupidity or mental indolence may be transformed into an intellectual accelerator.

It is the belief of Dr. Bernard Hollander, eminent specialist, that the brains of backward students may be effectively "jazzed up" by the proper application of electric currents. "Brain waves" turned loose in a schoolroom, Dr. Hollander believes, will so stimulate the mental process of the dullards that the will soon be moving toward the head of the class instead of lagging along at the foot.

Described Experiments

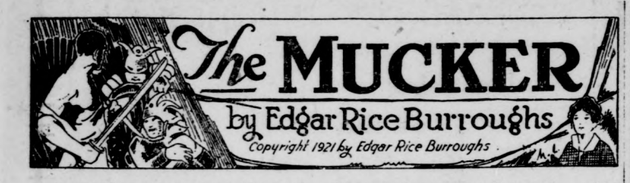

In a recent address before the congress of the British Phrenological society Dr. Hollander described experiments which he declared had demonstrated the efficiency of electric currents in stimulating mental endeavor. He expressed the belief that galvanism applied to certain regions of the head has the effect of improving mental power. Experiments he had conducted, Dr. Hollander said, resulted in backward or indolent students succeeding in examinations in which they previously had failed

Discussing the subject of phrenology, Dr. Hollander asserted that leading anatomists have acknowledged that "the skull is moulded upon the brain and grows with it." The size and shape of the head, he contended, conform for all practical purposes to the size and shape of the brain. Size of the head, however, is not necessarily a measure of the intellect, according to Dr. Hollander. "Even a capacious forehead," he said, "does not signify superior intellectual attainments, for it may be merely an empty warehouse which had never been stocked with knowledge."

As Bridge unwrapped the package and the paper unfolded beneath his eyes an article caught his attention—just casually at first; but presently to the exclusion of all else. As he read his eyebrows alternated between a position of considerable elevation to that of a deep frown. Occasionally he nodded knowingly. Finally he glanced up at Billy who was just rising from his ablutions. Hastily Bridge tore from the paper the article that had attracted his interest, folded it, and stuffed it into one of his pockets—he had not had time to finish the reading and he wanted to save the article for a later opportunity for careful perusal.

That evening Bridge sat for a long time scrutinizing Billy through half-closed lids, and often he found his eyes wandering to the red ring about the other's wrist; but whatever may have been within his thoughts he kept to himself.

It was noon when the two sauntered into Kansas City. Billy had a dollar in his pocket—a whole dollar. He had earned it assisting an automobilist out of a ditch.

"We'll have a swell feed," he had confided to Bridge, "an' sleep in a bed just to learn how much nicer it is sleepin' out under the black sky and the shiny little stars."

"You're a profligate, Billy," said Bridge.

"I dunno what that means," said Billy; "but if it's something I shouldn't be I probably am."

The two went to a rooming-house of which Bridge knew, where they could get a clean room with a double bed for fifty cents. It was rather a high price to pay, of course, but Bridge was more or less fastidious, and he admitted to Billy that he'd rather sleep in clean dirt of the roadside than in the breed of dirt one finds in an unclean bed.

At the end of the hall was a washroom, and toward this Bridge made his way, after removing his coat and throwing it across the foot of the bed. After he had left the room Billy chanced to notice a folded bit of newspaper on the floor beneath Bridge's coat. He picked it up to lay it on the little table which answered the purpose of a dresser when a single word caught his attention. It was a name: Schneider.

Billy unfolded the clipping and as his eyes took in the heading a strange expression entered them—a hard, cold gleam such as had not touched them since the day that he abandoned the deputy sheriff in the woods midway between Chicago and Joliet.

This is what Billy read:

Billy Byrne, sentenced to life imprisonment in Joliet penitentiary for the murder of Schneider, the old West Side saloon keeper, hurled himself from the train that was bearing him to Joliet yesterday, dragging with him the deputy sheriff to whom he was handcuffed.

The deputy was found a few hours later bound and gagged, lying in the woods along the Santa Fe not far from Lemont. He was uninjured. He says that Byrne got a good start, and doubtless took advantage of it to return to Chicago, where a man of his stamp could find more numerous and safer retreats than elsewhere.

There was much more—a detailed account of the crime for the commission of which Billy had been sentenced, a full and complete description of Billy, a record of his long years of transgression, and, at last, the mention of a five-hundred-dollar reward that the authorities had offered for information that would lead to his arrest.

When Billy had concluded the reading he refolded the paper and placed it in a pocket of the coat hanging upon the foot of the bed. A moment later Bridge entered the room. Billy caught himself looking often at his companion, and always there came to his mind the termination of the article he had found in Bridge's pocket—the mention of the five-hundred-dollar reward.

"Five hundred dollars," thought Billy, "is a lot o' coin. I just wonder now?" and he let his eyes wander to his companion as though he might read upon his face the purpose which lay in the man's heart. "He don't look it; but five hundred dollars is a lot o' coin—fer a bo, and wotinell did he have that article hid in his clothes fer? That's wot I'd like to know. I guess it's up to me to blow."

CHRISTMAS TIME LIKE GOD'S MIND

Holiday Season Is Picture of Lord Come to Life, Says Rev. Kemp

"The Christmas season stands for the great affirmation of the doctrine of the incarnation," asserted Rev. Philip V. Kemp at St. Mark's Episcopal church.

"It pictures to us the mind of God working out in human life.

"A man's life must go back to his great creedal affirmation for we cannot live without some sort of a creed. Every expression of opinion is in a sense a creed. The more vital a thing is the more necessary it is to have a great formulation of that creed.

"The doctrine of the incarnation gives expression to a great experience in the life of man. God has been and is still working in the world.

"Where belief in God is weak, then moral virtues are correspondingly weak. One of the weaknesses of modern life is due to the influences that make for the weakening of religious bonds and consequent loss of moral fibre."

Daily News Letter

General News and Gossip from Staff Writers at Home and Abroad.

TODAY—Women are failures at business because they are more interested in matrimonial prospects than they are in credits and debits, David M. Church, correspondent in London, indicates in his news letter. He bases his conclusion on government statistics and reports.

For International News Service.

LONDON, Dec. 26.—English women are failures at business, at least that is what statistics would seem to show.

An increase in the number of women who have failed in business is shown by the bankruptcy statistics which have just been published for the year 1921. In 1921 there were three women who failed for every woman who failed in 1920. Out of 3472 receiving orders issued, 325 were against women traders, of whom fifty-two were in the drapery and haberdashery trade and forty-seven in the millinery and dressmaking.

Marriage and thoughts of marriage are the cause, according to Miss Elspeth Phelps, court dressmaker.

"So many women fail to learn their business properly," Miss Phelps says. "They do not train themselves adequately; they will not put their hearts into the work; they shirk the drudgery that a man accepts.

"The reason for this is a fundamental one: They are all thinking more about marriage than about business. They may be in business to earn their living, but too often they regard their activities merely as a stepping stone; they have not made up their minds to stick to business."

London newspapers are written with a fine air of delicacy. Listen to this paragraph written in one of the many "gossip" columns:

"At the end of the year the arrangements of her Majesty are subject to alteration in order to permit the queen to make a short visit to Princess Mary at Goldsborough Hall, or, in the event of that place not being ready, at Harewood, Yorkshire, for about that time an event is expected in the royal family which will be of great personal interest to their majesties and also to the nation generally."

The prince of Wales is in line for promotion. Within a short time it is expected that the prince will be made both a rear admiral in the navy and a major general in the army. It is probable that the prince will hoist his rear admiral's flag some time next spring and will make a short cruise in command of one of the squadrons of the Atlantic fleet.

The new house of commons more nearly fulfills the name of "commons" than any previous house. The new parliament is full of common men, men who are not mere statesmen, men who do not hold their posision by reason of royal title, but men who have won their way into parliament as the representatives of the common people. In the present house there is a coal weigher, a railway locomotive engineer, a corset maker, a barber and a news agent. There are more trade union officials in the house than any other class. The house has in its membership eighty-three trade union officials, eighty lawyers, twenty-eight army officers, eight navy officers, twenty-two directors of companies, nineteen journalists and authors, seventeen ship owners, eleven manufacturers, ten engineers, nine land owners, nine farmers, eight schoolmasters and eight brewers and distillers.

The British soldier of today is a deserter from that time-honored institution, the "wet" canteen. Prohibition seems to have struck the British army, for the canteen sergeants are reporting that British "tommies" aren't taking their usual drinks. Even on pay nights the canteens are poorly patronized.

Tweed suits are being worn in parliament. The day when the members of the front bench must wear a high silk hat in the house is rapidly passing. The labor members insist upon attending in tweed suits, and even at ceremonials Ramsay MacDonald, labor leader, wears his tweeds in strange contrast to the immaculate cutaway coat and striped trousers worn by the prime minister.

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

— BY HOWARD R. GARIS —

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE CANDY JAR

"What are you looking for, Uncle Wiggily?" asked Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy one day, shortly after Christmas. The bunny rabbit gentleman was wandering about the hollow stump bungalow as though he had lost the twinkle from the end of his pink nose and couldn't find it.

"Oh, I'm just looking for a bit of Christmas candy," answered Mr. Longears. "Sometimes, now and again, I get hungry for candy."

"Well, there is no need for you to be hungry now," said Nurse Jane. "I put some of the candy you gave me for Christmas away in a jar. You'll find it on the top shelf of the pantry. I left it there so none of the animal children would come in and get it, and perhaps catch the toothache, or something like that."

"Very kind of you, I'm sure," said Uncle Wiggily. "Luckily, I have no hollow teeth to ache, so I'll eat a bit of candy."

The muskrat lady housekeeper showed the rabbit gentleman where she kept the candy jar on a shelf in the pantry, and, climbing up on a chair, Uncle Wiggily took the jar down, reached in his paw and grasped as much candy as he could hold.

"I may as well take enough while I'm at it," he thought.

But my goodness! When Uncle Wiggily tried to pull out his paw full of candy he couldn't get it from the jar.

"Oh, Nurse Jane" cried the rabbit uncle, dancing around the room, with the jar fastened to one paw. "I'm caught! I'm in a trap! Oh, why did you put a trap in the candy jar?"

Nurse Jane looked at Uncle Wiggily a moment and then she burst out laughing.

"It isn't anything to laugh at!" cried the bunny uncle. "Being caught by a trap in a candy jar isn't so funny!"

"Silly rabbit! There isn't any trap there!" chuckled Nurse Jane. "The trouble is you have picked up too large a pawful of the candy. Take only half as many and then your paw won't be so large and you can easily pull it from the jar."

"Oh," said Uncle Wiggily, who really didn't mean to be greedy, "I forgot about that. Yes, I see. The candy in my paw makes my paw so much larger that I can't pull it from the jar."

Then he dropped half the pieces of candy back in the jar and when his paw was smaller it easily came out through the mouth of the jar.

"I'll know better next time," said Uncle Wiggily. "It is better to take two small pawsfull than one large one."

Uncle Wiggily ate some candy, and as there came a knock on the door just then he forgot to put the jar back on the pantry shelf.

It was Mrs. Wibblewobble, the duck lady, who had tapped with her bill on the door of the hollow stump bungalow.

"Oh, Nurse Jane!" quacked Mrs. Wibblewobble. "Will you please come over to my house a moment? I am making a new kind of cake and I forgot whether you put the chocolate on the inside or the outside."

"It depends on what kind of a cake you are making," said Nurse Jane. "I'll come over and look at it. Uncle Wiggily will be all right for a while."

"Yes, I'm all right, here with the candy jar!" chuckled the rabbit. "But I guess I'll take a little sleep before I put my paw in and pull out any more," he said.

Uncle Wiggily went to sleep, and while he was asleep in came the old Blue Nosed Baboon.

"Ah, ha!" said the Baboon to himself. "I'll take a lot of candy and then I'll nibble Uncle Wiggily's ears." The Baboon put his paw in the open candy jar and grasped all the candies he could hold. But when he tried to pull out his paw he couldn't—for the same reason Uncle Wiggily couldn't.

"Oh, I'm caught, I'm caught in a trap!" howled the Baboon dancing around the room. Uncle Wiggily awoke, and, seeing what had happened, the bunny didn't tell the Baboon how to open his paw, drop the candies and so get loose. Instead, Uncle Wiggily telephoned for the Police Dog, who came and arrested the Baboon. And not until the Police Dog made him did the Baboon open his paw and drop the candies so they could take the jar from him.

"I'm caught in a trap!" howled the Baboon.

"The candy jar made a good trap after all!" laughed Uncle Wiggily, as the Police Dog led the Baboon off to jail. And if the snowball doesn't take the loaf of bread out for a sleigh ride and forget to bring it back for supper, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the nut shells.

RADIO EXPLAINED

By LIEUT. JOHN R. IRWIN
INSTRUCTOR U. S. AIR SERVICE

EXPLANATION OF RADIO

Supposing you could devise something that would eliminate all but one of the stations and all but one of the speakers, you would eliminate interference. In radio, interference is overcome by what is known as "tuning." Stations in the same vicinity, by agreement, employ different wave lengths. By a receiving instrument known as a "tuner" or "receiver" it is possible to listen to only one station, or, if desired, an arrangement of circuits can be made for "broad tuning" and sharp tuning." As the names imply, broad tuning enables the person receiving to listen to several stations, working on various wave lengths (within a certain scope), but with resultant interference, while the latter permits only the reception of signals from one station.

In commercial practice this arrangement for listening in on broad tuning is very desirable, as an operator is enabled to catch any "call," and by arrangement of switches and dials rapidly throw over to the tuning devices providing for sharp or selective tuning. Details of such receivers will be found under that heading in the following articles.

Renewed Testimony
No one in Glendale who suffers backache, headaches, or distressing urinary ills can afford to ignore this Long Beach man's twice-told story. It is confirmed testimony that no resident of this locality can doubt.
Jas. Franks, 915 Dawson Ave., Long Beach, Cal., says: "Many years ago I had kidney trouble and I suffered with backache. At times my back was so lame and stiff I had to crawl around on my knees in order to stop the pain. The pains were sharp and shooting and darted through my kidneys. I used Doan's Kidney Pills and they proved most beneficial as they soon cured me of the trouble. I have had no return of it."
FIVE YEARS LATER Mr. Franks said: "My opinion of Doan's Kidney Pills is as good today as it was when I endorsed them some time ago. I gladly renew my former statement."

NEWS EMPLOYES AT XMAS DINNER

Seventy-five in Attendance At Social Gathering in Broadway Inn

The entire Glendale Evening News family put aside routine duties just after noon last Saturday and gathered around the dinner tables at the Broadway Inn, where A. T. Cowan, the editor and publisher, was host at a Christmas turkey dinner. There were seventy-five persons in the company, including every one from the smallest "newsie" to the heads of the editorial and business departments.

Following Mr. Cowan's invitation on Thursday the affair was keenly anticipated by his employes. Shortly after noon on Saturday, when the edition was ready to go to press, all activities at The Evening News office were suspended. The telephone switchboard was disconnected, the office door locked and everyone journeyed out to the Broadway Inn for the dinner and informal social time.

Special Preparations

Host William Hersel and his assistants at the Inn had made extensive preparations for The Evening News celebration and the artistic table arrangement, splendid menu and pleasing service were proof of their careful work.

Three long tables were set up in the form of a hollow square and effectively decorated with the Christmas holly. At the long table across the south of the room were seated Mr. Cowan and members of the editorial, business and job departments. Other members of these departments sat at the table to the east and at the table on the west side of the room were seated all the newsboys.

The seventy-five places at the tables were marked with clever humorous place cards bearing little caricatures with pearl buttons for heads.

Real Turkey Dinner

A holiday menu that included all the good things served at Christmas time was enjoyed. The menu was:

Oyster Cocktail
Turkey Liver Canape
Celery Olives
Essence of Fowl
Roast Turkey with Chestnut Dressing
Vegetables
Broadway Inn Special Salad
Plum Pudding and Ice Cream
Coffee

Before being seated the company sang "America" and during the after-dinner hour they were entertained with an informal program.

Presented With Watch

One of the features of the affair was the presentation to Mr. Cowan of a seventeen jewel Howard watch, with the following inscription on the case, "A. T. Cowan, From the Employes of The Glendale Evening News, 1922." The gift was presented by Harry James, the special guest and entertainer at the dinner, and Mr. Cowan responded with a brief speech of appreciation.

Another interesting part of the affair was a short speech by W. F. Tower, who has been correspondent for the news department for several years. Mr. Tower brought copies of the paper for 1917-1918 and he reminisced of the days when The Evening News was a four page sheet and complimented Mr. Cowan and his employes on today publishing a newspaper of which any city twice the size of Glendale might well be proud.

At the close of Mr. Tower's speech it was Mr. Cowan who suggested that every one seated at the tables give their name and birthplace. The company represented nearly every state and Canada and England.

As the final event Harry James, monologuist, gave some war stories and also his monologue on "The Englishman at the Ball Game."

Mr. James is in great demand on local entertainment programs and his clever work at the dinner on Saturday was received with hearty applause.

PASTOR TALKS ON GOD'S GREATNESS

Rev. Calderwood Says One Can Learn of Jesus by Public Opinion

"The Greatness of Jesus" was the subject of the sermon Sunday morning before the members of the Congregational church.

"We learn about the greatness of Jesus by studying the opinions of others about him," remarked Rev. C. M. Calderwood. "But this presents its problems, for the disciples did not all agree as to wherein consisted the greatness of Jesus.

"The early church fathers fought over the personality of Jesus when they would much better have been studying His teachings. Europe was shaken by the arguments of church councils over the personality of Jesus while His ethical teachings and ideals were forgotten.

"The shortest, safest and most satisfactory way to learn about Jesus is to study His personal achievements. His life was short, His stage narrow and His audience largely indifferent or hostile, but see what he did!

"The greatness of Jesus lay in His power of trusting and leading others to trust God. In this He transcends all other men—prophets, disciples and Christians."

Making Children Happy
Aid Those Who Aid You
Too Many Illiterates
Organized Effort

By Gil A. Cowan

WHEN you come to think of it, isn't it wonderful how organizations go out of their way to make the children of communities happy on Christmas day?

Sometimes individuals or clubs or other associations of fraternal or benevolent purpose take the work upon their shoulders, but to me one of the most impressive ways of financing affairs of this kind is by letting the general public subscribe to the fund.

There are some folks, almost recluse-like, who would be only too glad to give their share in making some youngster, or some family, happy on Christmas day.

And in public subscriptions you will often note "A Friend," or something similar, signed by the donor who for all the world would not have it known that in his inward self there is that charitable spirit.

Again, such an opportunity to give to any organized charity allows many to reduce their income taxes. That is a rare privilege, indeed.

But there are those, I am told, who take opportunity of the clause and include in their reports to the government so much for churches, charity, etc., which in reality has never been paid.

Gee, but I'll bet Collector Rex Goodcell likes to get his fists on such a fellow as that.

"Buy it at home." So much is said on this subject that it becomes stale to the average reader, yet, if you will consider for one moment what that means, you will take heed every time the term appears.

When you patronize a neighbor, a business man in your own town, you immediately benefit yourself for he helps pay your immediate taxes and increases the property values in your immediate vicinity, and gives you the benefit of the earning power of that dollar you spend with him by hiring help here at home and keeping wages where they should be, etc.

In contrast, when you send your dollar away it quite likely never will return to your community, but build up some other place, usually some city that already is built, and you have lost a golden opportunity of assisting those who help you.

Likewise, the dealer can learn a lesson in economics by knowing that every cent he spends for commodities manufactured in his immediate trade territory will do that much more to make his trade better, and the sooner he will have the spirit of "Trade at Home."

When you get printing done outside of this city you have taken that much money out of local circulation. You have crippled home industry just that much. And yet 25 cents saved on quantity production by the metropolitan plan will sway your better judgment.

What queer traps we mortals fall into, only to smile at the dumb little gopher that gets caught, never thinking of the thousands which avoid the batit.

A preacher speaking before a club in a neighboring city recently took for his topic, "You Are Not So Damn Smart As You Think." Of course, he borrowed the phrase, but the point he made stuck in the minds of his hearers.

There is altogether too large a number of people who vote and call themselves American citizens who are illiterate. It is stated that were they organized it would be easy for any radical group to seize this great government of ours.

That in itself is warning enough. While California stands high in the standards of education, let us so organize that there will be no doubt but what the west dominates through its superior intelligence.

In Southern California the opportunity exists.

In a Southern California city not so very far away sufficient was saved in paving bids for street improvements to build an additional school house, or a city hall, or a public library.

Seems that it has been the custom in this particular community for the contractors, "who are like birds of a feather" to "get together" and make the most of organization.

Right then and there is where organization is all wrong. Organization must be for the benefit of the many, not of the few, otherwise it is bound to fail as it has failed in instances too numerous to mention.

A marching column, all in step, will wreck a bridge because of the organized effort. So, sometimes, it is good to have those not in harmony to bring forth the true worth of anything.

In other words, dissatisfaction is merely a desire to do something better. If it is put to work in the right channels good must come of it.

A converted "knocker" is the best "booster" any community can have. He knows how to answer any argument.

XMAS SEASON IS DEVOTED TO LORD

Rev. Cole Says Hearts of the World Turn to Saviour At This Time

"This is the season when so many hearts turn to the Saviour of the world," remarked Rev. C. A. Cole Sunday night at the Central Christian church.

The text, which was taken from the twenty-second verse of the fifteenth chapter of John, was "If I had not come."

"The very announcement of the subject turns our minds to nations where Christ is not known," asserted Rev. Cole, "and to conditions as we have heard about them in the far away ages beyond the glad day when He was born.

"To realize such a thing we would have to transform the world; to imagine it we would be busy days and nights turning out lights and darkening windows and shutting up doors and cutting up literature and destroying art and silencing song.

" 'The Son of Man came to seek and to save that which was lost.' That is one statement of the mission of His coming, the coming which we celebrate. And how are we lost? How does one friend lose another? When remembrance fails. How does God lose us? When we forget him!

"He has come and we celebrate His coming in this happy season. 'Behold I bring you glad tidings of great joy."

THREE WISE MEN STORY EXPLAINED

Dr. Winnard Says Devotion And Love Exhibited Grips Our Hearts

"The Three Wise Men" gave Dr. James F. Winnard a basis for his sermon Sunday morning at the Tropico Presbyterian church.

"The story of the three wise men," he asserted, "grips our hearts because of the devotion of these men to the One whom they loved without seeing."

"This is the gift season. We have checked up our lists to make sure that we have omitted none of those whom we especially wish to remember. You have been thinking about your gifts to your friends for weeks. Today I want to ask you about your gifts to your Lord. And I am not speaking about some intangible thing but something that is real and vital to our Christian life and experience. 'For them that honor me I will honor,' says the Lord.

"First of all we must make Him a gift of love. Money is also an active agent in the kingdom of God and we should make Him a gift of money. A third gift is that of service."

Dr. Winnard closed his sermon with the story of the "Other Wise Man" as illustrative of the great truth. "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these ye have done it unto me."

BIGGEST EVENTS OF HISTORY TOLD

Eyes of World Now Center On Bethlehem and Calvary, Dr. Rasmus Says

"The Overture of Angels" was the theme of the sermon Sunday morning at the First Methodist church.

"The two unrivalled events of human history are the cradle of Bethlehem and the cross of Calvary," asserted Dr. Henry I. Rasmus.

"The eyes of the world are turned today towards the spot where this most notable event in human history occurred. To this shrine came the beauty of the angels' overture. The two features of that overture are, recognition of God, 'Glory to God in the Highest' and a benediction wish to humanity, 'On earth peace and good will toward men.'

"Peace on earth! Will that ever come? This dream of sane men and women? Will the nations of the earth some day stack their arms while the dove builds its nest in the cannon's mouth? Not until hate shall have perished everywhere and racial prejudice passed from the earth. This, too, can only be the heritage of man when the desire of all nations shall be to follow His way."

G. A. R. Post Votes Against Annexation

N. F. Banks post and auxiliary of the G. A. R. do not think much of Glendale's annexation to Los Angeles, according to Commander Thomas Barrett of 364 West Wilson avenue. Mr. Barrett believes in loyalty to his community as well as to his country. A straw vote was taken on the subject of annexation last week at the monthly meeting at G. A. R. hall, 902 South Glendale avenue. As a result both the post and the auxiliary went on record opposed to annexation.

Cotton Raisers Are Facing Ruin, Said

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 26.—Charging that Southern planters are again facing ruin because the "gamblers of Wall street are forcing cotton out of their hands at a price which permits the speculators to reap all the benefits," Senator Heflin, democrat, of Alabama, served notice in the senate this afternoon he would call for a senatorial investigation of cotton conditions when the senate reconvenes after the Christmas holidays.

DALLAS BARS 'FATTY'

DALLAS, Dec. 26.—Moving picture films in which Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle appears will not be permitted on Dallas screens, according to Mrs. Ethel Boyce.

Ban on Arbuckle in L. A. Not Definite

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 26.—Legally the city of Los Angeles may be unable to prevent an exhibition of a motion picture featuring Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle, Mayor Cryer announced today.

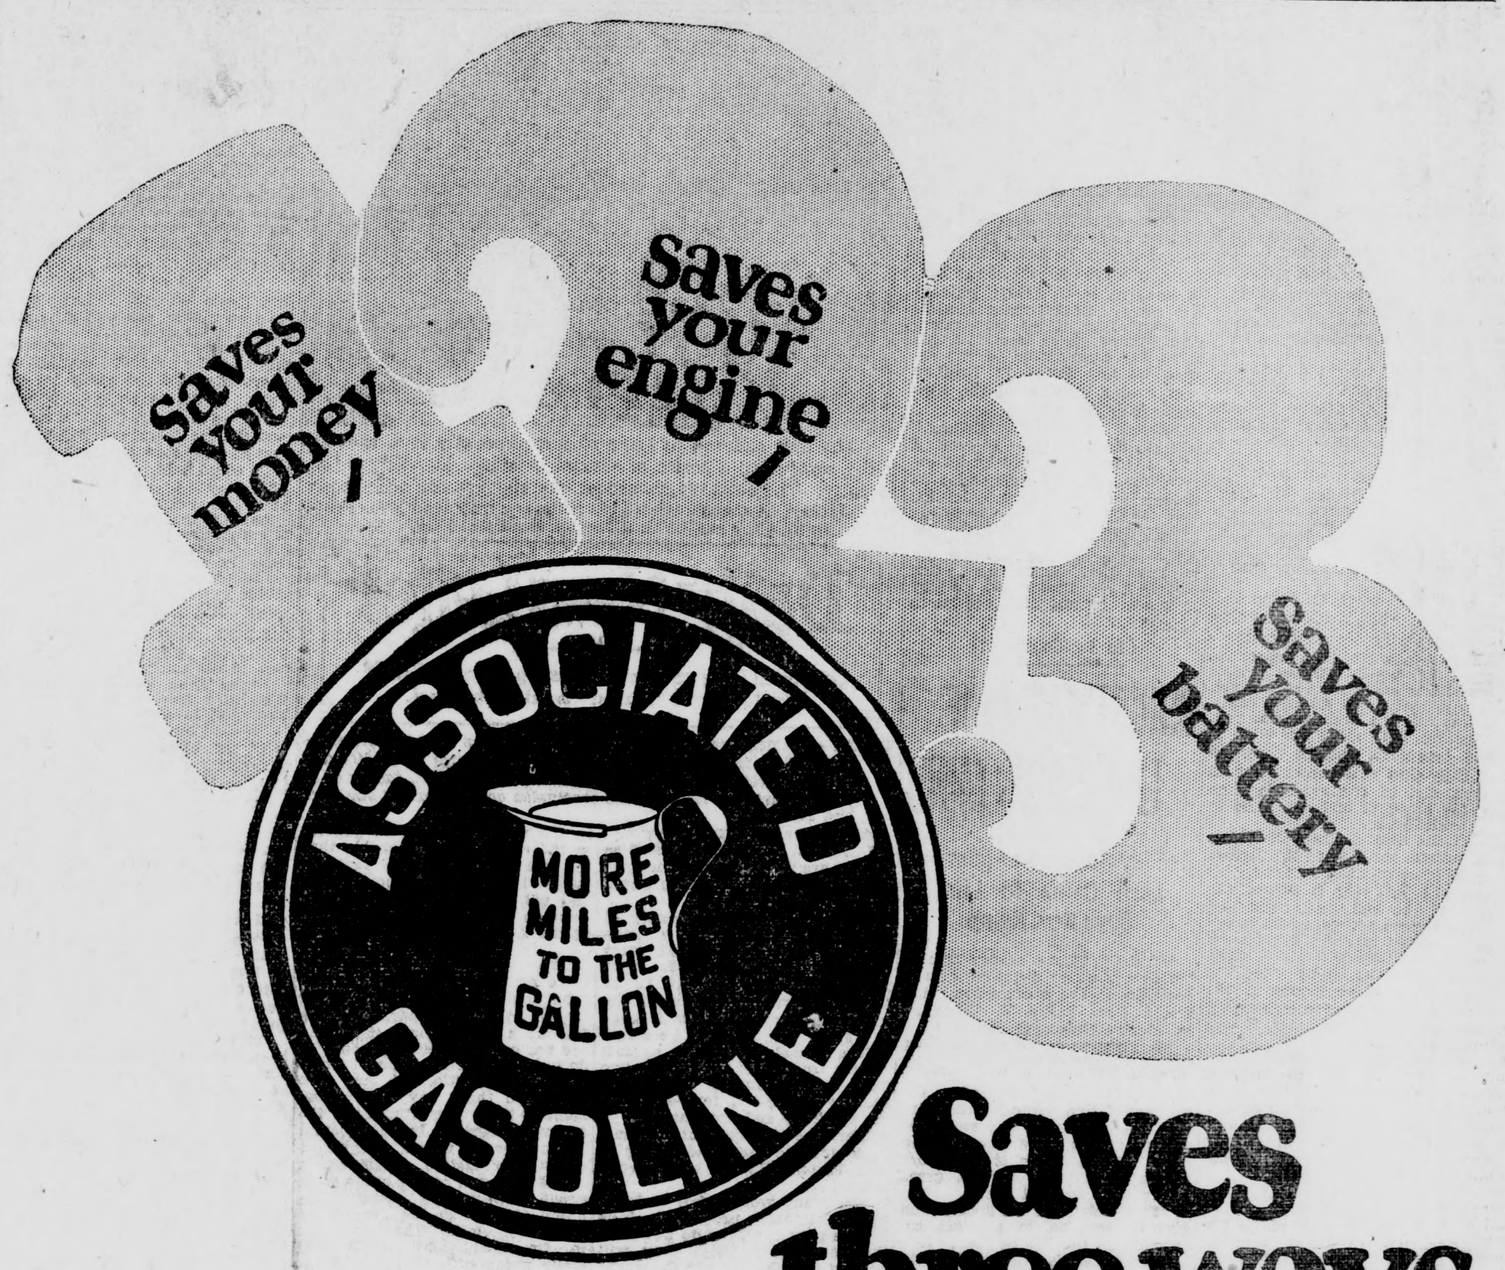

The mayor said that the prosecution was legally unable to stop an exhibition of any Arbuckle picture.

The motion picture directors' association, at a meeting held last night, adopted a resolution stating that the association will not "tolerate or excuse" persons who "by their actions have proved a menace to the well-being of the industry."

BACK TO HIS FIRST LOVE

By Wood Cowan

You can't keep a good name down—or the man that it's tacked to. Even a prune farm in all its glory couldn't do the trick in the case of Frank Chance. The old Cub star first sacker has thrown the prune farm out of the old home and has installed his first love, baseball, at the head of the table.

Frank just naturally couldn't live without the love and excitement the old game had instilled into his heart during the 15 years or so he was actively a leader in it. So first thing we know Frazee, owner of the Boston Red Sox, announces that Chance has signed a contract to try and bring the Red Sox into the first division the coming season.

Back about 1898 Chance first came to the Cubs as a catcher. He was soon converted into a first baseman and in 1905 became manager of that team. He led his mates to a pennant in 1906, 1907, 1908 and 1910, winning the World Series with his 1907 and 1908 aggregations. His dynamic personality, brilliant playing and strategy earned him the name of "Peerless Leader."

Leaving the Cubs in 1912, Chance announced that he was through with baseball. But the owners of the N. Y. Yankees offered him such a fat salary that he came East and tried his hand at lifting a tail-end club out of the rut. After two years he gave it up and again headed for his prune farm.

Chance was born in Fresno, Calif., in 1877. He played ball at Washington College, Irvington, Calif., from 1893 till 1895, then played semi-pro ball at Sullivan, Ill., and joined the Cubs as a catcher in 1898. He was a great hitter and base runner, leading his league with 67 stolen bases in 1903.

Chance has always been a mighty hard task master, ruling with an iron hand, but he was very popular among his players.

The WORLD OVER

By FRANKLIN B. MORSE.
PACIFIC SPORTS SERVICE

It is significant of the material success of the 1922 baseball season that of thirty leagues operated under the protection of the National Association, only one league, the Western International failed to complete its schedule. These figures were officially given out by Secretary Farrell in his report to the baseball magnates.

With approximately 6500 players on the payrolls of these leagues, the total of the monthly stipend for services rendered amounted to more than $2,900,000 a month. This figure will give an idea of the magnitude of the sum necessary to carry on the national game during 1922—and this, it must be remembered, is only a part of the overhead charge. When ground, grandstands, travel and hotel bills begin to be figured, the totals run up into astonishing figures.

And for all of this the baseball public is paying, and paying cheerfully. Nothing could be more eloquent of the place baseball holds in the estimation of the public. Nothing should better demonstrate to the individual player who is tempted to consider himself indispensible to the game what, after all, an atom he is in the tremendous organization which covers the continent. Babe Ruth, one time idol of the American baseball public, is an outstanding 1922 example of the man who thought himself as great, if not greater, than the game. The awakening that Ruth received is a matter of baseball history.

The 1922 season was remarkably free of any of the scandals resulting from men connected with the game straying from the straight and narrow path. Of these incidents the only one savoring of a stench was that relating to William H. Klepper, president of the Portland club of the Pacific coast league, who was eventually barred from further participation in baseball affairs.

Every means was used to secure and retain the confidence of the public as to the integrity of the game. When a game in the world's series was called on account of alleged darkness and a tremendous reaction went up from the fans, it was immediately resolved by the powers that be to return all of the receipts of that game over to charity. To the honor of all hands, it must be said that the greatest of good faith was shown and action prompt.

History repeated itself in 1922 when the two New York teams won the championships of their respective leagues and played in the world's series as they had done in 1921. Again the Yankees were favored to win over McGraw's men, and again the dope was upset; this time to a faster tune than the year previous for the National leaguers took the series in straight games. Ruth, as he had done more or less during the season, proved one of the disappointments of the annual classic.

While the teams played to capacity houses, there is a sentiment that it will be to the best interests of baseball if, during this year, some other teams win out. With two New York teams clashing, there is a dearth of that intersectional or intercity rivalry that exists otherwise.

The year 1922 was a season of deals for players involving large sums of money and concerning which much interest was taken. It is officially stated that the amount involved in the purchase of minor leaguers was $894,500. Of this amount the Pacific Coast received approximately a quarter of a million dollars for its players. Notable among these were O'Connell and Kamm, both of the San Francisco club.

The races for the pennant in the American, National and Pacific Coast leagues in particular were not decided until the very last week of play, a matter which retained the interest of the fans until the very last. San Francisco eventually won the Pacific Coast league championship with a team that was considered one of the best balanced that ever represented the city by the Golden Gate.

The standing of the Pacific Coast League in the baseball world is attested to by the fact that there has been some talk that it has outgrown its present status and is about ready to be rated as a major league organization. Within the last decade the money investments in this league have doubled at least, and the patronage of the fans constantly has been increasing. Just when a change will occur no one is willing to predict but that it will come sooner or later with the growing attendance, seems well within the realm of both possibility and probability.

Semi-professional and intercollegiate baseball shared in the general prosperity and the hundreds of the lesser leagues of all kinds including industrial and other organizations were largely augmented. There are no available figures, but reports from every section of the country are identical—to the effect that more men and boys are being recruited to the game either for profit or pleasure than ever before.

It also is of interest to note that the frequent invasions of American stellar players to foreign lands has had the effect of sowing the baseball seed which now is springing up into the ripened blade. In Japan, the greatest progress has been made, the natives taking a great fancy to the pastime. Both France and England have been nibbling at the bait ever since our soldiers showed them the possibilities of the sport.

With the present fearless and conscientious safeguarding that the powers that be are giving to the sport there is no reason why the present high tide line should not be maintained. While the ethics and good name of the sport are paramount, the continuation of its popularity from a commercial point of view to those who live by it should impel them to keep it clean. No goose ever laid eggs of higher grade gold.

McGraw May Take Presidency of Giants

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—John J. McGraw is considering a proposition whereby he will assume the dual role of president and manager of the New York Giants, it became known today. In spite of all denials, Charles A. Stoneham, it seems, wishes to retire from baseball, and the first step in this direction calls for McGraw to be placed in supreme command of Giant affairs at a salary commensurate with the importance and responsibility of the position.

Ultimately this will mean the passing of McGraw as manager. At present it means nothing. McGraw will continue as manager and Stoneham as principal stockholder of the club until such time as a change is deemed advisable. Off-hand we would venture that nothing will be done in this connection until 1924.

The reason is both obvious and pressing. McGraw, Stoneham and Judge Francis X. McQuade bought the Giant franchise in 1919 on the basis of 1,370 shares each for McGraw and Stoneham and seventy shares for McQuade, with McGraw and McQuade having a five-year option on Stoneham's holdings at the price prepaid for the Giants, $1,900,000. But Sunday baseball and a sound development has increased the value of the club to such an extent that Stoneham is not at all anxious to sell out until the option expires.

Meanwhile, however, his business and racing interests are claiming his attention, and the proposition that McGraw shoulder the entire responsibility of running the club is in line with his desire to escape the claim that the baseball club exacts on his time.

SPORTS CHATTER

By BILL UNMACK
PACIFIC SPORTS SERVICE

Jack Dempsey's manager is said to have answered a sports writer's query as to the condition of the champion by stating that Dempsey took on several men in his stage bout every day and thus kept himself fit to go into the ring for a championship bout in forty-eight hours.

Now Manager Kearns is not fooling anyone who knows anything about the upkeep of the physical status. The question is, Is he fooling himself and his protege? No amount of fiddling around on a vaudeville stage is going to have the effect of honest to goodness training for a real battle, and an occasional honest bout.

What Dempsey is losing all this time of his enforced layoff is largely his ability to measure distance. This the eye loses, irrespective of what his muscles and other physical component parts may lose. The most noticeable thing about a man who reenters the ring after a layoff is the way in which his blows fail to connect with his opponent. Granting that he may have all the foretime power in them, what does it profit if they fall short?

Incidentally it is these misses that pave the way for the other fellow to get beyond the defense and turn the tables on a champion. There is not one man in fifty today who will admit that Dempsey would be as good in his next battle as he was on the day that he took the crown away from Jess Willard.

St. Mary's college and Pomona colleges, both of California, are slated for post season games in the Hawaiian Islands against Honolulu teams. For several seasons now, mainland teams have been making the trans-Pacific jaunt and have had a lot of fun out of it. There is no question that, as long as they are able to spare the money, these meetings tend to make better the entente cordiale, whatever that is, between the youngsters of these far remote sections, and yet all a part of the same nation. The better the folks of the United States know each other, the firmer the Republic.

Some day it is to be hoped that the best of the Hawaiian Islands football teams will be able to make a trip to the Pacific Coast to play and let the natives here see what kind of football they play over there. There is no doubt that a Hawaiian champion football team would be a card here, provided always that it was matched against one of the popular teams over on the coast. By popular, we mean a team that has shown up well during the season irrespective of whether or not it was the champion team of the coast.

WALTER CAMP PLACES MULLER ON HIS ALL-AMERICAN TEAM

No College Given More Than One Man on First Squad; Morrison on Second

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—One man each from the Navy, Princeton, LaFayette, Army, Harvard, Pennsylvania, California, Iowa, Cornell, Michigan and Chicago appears in the line-up of Walter Camp's all-American team, made public in the current issue of Colliers'.

For the first time in many years, no college can muster more than one man in the first team selections and of the entire list, covering three teams, only the Navy, Princeton, the Army, Harvard, California, Iowa, Michigan and Yale can boast of two or more players named. Michigan leads the way in this respect with three places, one for each team.

After commenting on his selection as embodied the co-ordination of mentality, power and spirit, Mr. Camp goes on to state, in part

"Practically every man in the back field is a threat, not of one kind of an attack, but of three, while in the line we have ends who can block tackles; tackles who can get the jump on their guards and then clean up the secondary; guards who can open holes, can take part in further interference, and a center accurate and steady in his passing and still instantly useful after his pass is made."

He also expounds at length upon the ability of the team on defense and the possibilities it would afford as an exponent of the overhead game. He pays a notable tribute to the ability of Edward Kaw, of Cornell, when he refers to him as "the greatest all-around backfield man in the country."

The selections follow:

Position	First Team	Second Team	Third Team
End	Taylor, Navy	Kirke, Mich.	Kopf, W. & J.
Tackle	Treat, Princeton	Waldorf, Syracse.	Below, Wis.
Guard	Schwab, LaFaytte.	Cross, Yale	McMillin, Ill.
Center	Gardbisch, Army	Bowser, Pitts.	Peterson, Neb.
Guard	Hubbard, Harvard	Setron, W. Va.	Dickinson, Princn.

Pomona Team Loses To Hawaiian Squad

HONOLULU, Dec. 26.—Hawaii's mid-summer Christmas proved too much for Pomona college, California, football eleven and as a result they were defeated here Christmas day, 25 to 6, by the University of Hawaii team.

Pomona's lone touchdown was scored in the second quarter when Right End Daggs, an ex-Olympic hurdler, picked up a fumbled ball and raced 55 yards for touchdown.

ANSWERED LETTERS

Harriet E.—When the hair is mixed with grey, the net should also be a mixture of grey and a shade the natural color of the hair. No other choice in a net will be invisible. These mixed shades may be purchased in any shop where they carry a full line of hair nets.

John Edgar.—Frost bitten feet should never be subjected to sudden changes of temperature. If they are there always will be a recurrence of the inflammation. Protect such feet with woolen stockings; never heat them suddenly by holding near to a fire after they have been chilled. Paint the swollen and inflamed portions with iodine every time there is a return of the itching sensations.

Bobbed Hair: — Bobbed hair will always require more shampooing than hair of greater length. The reason for this is the fact that the scalp is just as active, no matter what the hair's length, so there is a tendency to oiliness in the case of the short hair.

Often it is necessary to shampoo the bobbed head every ten days, or if that seems to make the hair brittle, remove the excess oil by occasionally dusting into the hair a little powder. In such cases, never allow the powder to remain in any longer than a few minutes, when it should be thoroughly shaken out. Powder can be drying and also cause brittleness if used to excess.

Mrs. T. William R.—If your cream did not take up all of the rose water, you must have overheated the ingredients. Make it over by reheating it in a double boiler, taking care to heat it only to lukewarmth; then add about 30 grains of borax to make sure of a perfect emulsion. This latter ingredient would not be necessary had you made a success of the cream at first, but it will now make a better cream for you than if you merely reheated it. This small amount of borax will not affect the skin in any way except as a cleansing agent.

Timothy F. D.—The antiseptic tooth pastes that are sold now are much better for preserving the teeth and keeping the gums healthy, than any of the old preparations that were made mostly from powdered chalk.

Mrs. Catharine F.:—As either women or men advance in years the oils in the system become absorbed and the skin suffers from this, which is the reason why the complexion becomes dry and shrivels. Much of this may be warded off, if the skin is fed with a fine vegetable oil made into a cream, and a simple astringent used at least once each week to keep the skin firm. While a daily warm bath is a beautifier at any age, since it keeps the pores freed and the skin clear, yet the face and throat of the older woman should be cleansed mostly with a cleansing cream, and water used but sparingly. When water is used, the face should always be given plenty of cream to supply an extra amount of oil to the skin.

Side Talks
by Ruth Cameron

I CAN'T AFFORD IT

I can't afford it.

How most of us hate to say those words in regard to money!

Some people, in fact, never do say them outright, but always have some other reason which they advance with the ostrich like notion that it will hide the real reason. Generally they fool nobody but themselves.

Courage and Common Sense

I love to hear a person say "I can't afford it." I am always filled with admiration for his courage and common sense.

But when I wrote these words at the top of the page I was thinking of another kind of "I can't afford it" than the financial one. I mean the health "I can't afford it."

I think people are almost as loath to say that as the other.

And not only do they say it, but they don't even realize it.

Health extravagance is just as common as money extravagance, just as foolish, just as disastrous and much less generally recognized.

"This Once"

It is so easy to be extravagant of one's health in both big and little ways without realizing how much harm one is doing.

I am supposed to use glasses to read with. Every now and then I find myself sitting down without my glasses, not wanting to get up and look for them, saying to myself: "Oh, it won't do any harm this once." But the little "this once" health extravagances are like the small money extravagances, they run up to a surprisingly big total, and after several such bits of self-indulgence my eyes are aching.

Eating too much or too little is a health extravagance that people who are inclined to err in either direction ought to say: "I can't afford it" about. I think the person who is too thin ought to make as determined an effort to get the extra food he or she probably needs into him, as the person who is too fat ought to make to keep the extra food he doesn't need out of him.

Which Do You Do?

An ice cream soda or sundae at just the time when it will spoil one's appetite for dinner, arguing at meal time with the resultant bad effect on digestion, hurrying directly after eating, cutting down too far on one's sleep allowance, slumping down in a chair to read when one needs exercise, exposing oneself needlessly to cold contagion because one is ashamed to admit that one objects to being sneezed at, getting careless about regular elimination, not drinking enough water—these are some of the health extravagances that most of us commit.

The Authorman prophesies that the time will come when ill health will be regarded as a sin rather than a misfortune. If it is, we shall surely be more careful how we waste health.

WHY NERVOUSNESS IS AN ENEMY TO HEATH

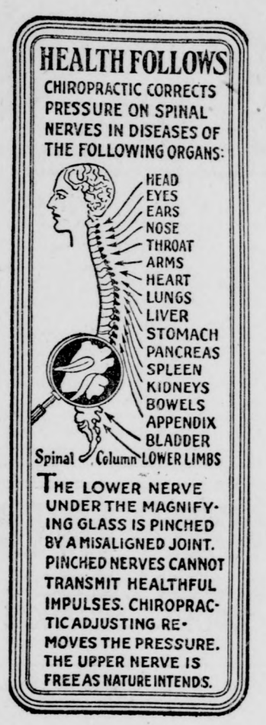

Weekly Health Talk No. 11, by By Drs. Eble & Eble, Ds. C.

Nervousness is an enemy to health because it prevents rest and relaxation. Nervous people cannot sit still and therefore do not get the rest they should from a sitting position. Nervousness prevents sound sleep and it is equally guilty of preventing concentration, or the ability to hold the mind on a given line of thought for any length of time.

Nervousness is caused by irritating pressure on spinal nerves. This pressure is caused at the spinal nerve opening by displacement of spinal bones from their true alignment. The correction of this defective alignment lies solely in the hands of the chiropractor, whose science teaches him how to detect such points of pressure and how to make the proper adjustments to start the displaced bone back into proper position. There is no better method of overcoming nervousness than by chiropractic spinal adjustments.

Uncle Ben says—"Judging by the plays y'see at the theatre the Broad way ideal is an income which permits you to sleep all day an' play all night in th' wild oats field."

Several Years' Suffering Ended

"After several years' suffering from eye trouble, rheumatism and nervousness and getting no results from medical treatment, I can truly say that I got immediate relief as soon as I started chiropractic spinal adjustments. Now my eyes give me no trouble at all; I am not bothered with rheumatism whatever, and my nerves are as steady as a rock."—JACK GREEN, Chiropractic Research Bureau, Statement No. 1350S.

RECIPES FOR USING LEFT-OVERS

At this time of the year when we are all entertaining more or less company, we wish to use the consequent "left-overs" to the very best advantage. Since poultry is the most expensive, taking it pound and pound, of all meats, the thrifty housewife will welcome recipes for using up left over bits of chicken, turkey, etc.

In serving left-overs of any description it is wise to remember that food cooked for one meal is never as appealing when it is served in the same form for any subsequent meal. Roasted or boiled fowl may be used for salad, croquettes, loaves, and the like. If there is but a small amount of material left over, then a recipe should be selected that calls for an amount sufficient to give flavor to the dish, yet is appetizing and attractive.

Chicken in Rice Cups—This is a delicious luncheon dish, and also is an economical way of using small quantities of left-overs. To prepare it line small well-buttered cups with soft-boiled rich half an inch in thickness. Fill the center with well-cooked chicken finely minced, delicately seasoned, and slightly made moist with cream sauce or chicken gravy. A few drops of onion juice or celery salt may be used if desired. Cover the top with a layer of rice and bake in a moderate oven for fifteen minutes. Then invert the cups on a hot platter and serve at once with any preferred sauce.

Chicken Moulds—Soak one tablespoon granulated gelatine in four tablespoons cold chicken stock, dissolve in three-fourths cup hot chicken stock. Set aside to chill; when it begins to thicken, beat, using an egg beater, until frothy, then add one cup cream, beaten until stiff, and one cup of cold chicken, cut into dice. Season with salt and pepper. Turn into small cups, which have been wet on inside with cold water, and chill.

Creole Chicken on Toast — Cream two tablespoons butter and add the yolks of three hard-boiled eggs rubbed to a paste. Soak one-fourth of a cup of cracker crumbs in one-fourth cup of cold milk for fifteen minutes, then add to first mixture. Pour on gradually one cup of hot chicken stock then add to first mixture. Pour on gradually one cup of hot chicken stock (or hot milk); put over fire and when the boiling point is reached add one cup cooked chicken or fowl cut in small pieces. Season with salt, pepper and celery salt, and serve on finger-shaped pieces of hot, buttered toast.

Chicken Croquettes — Make one and one-half cups very thick white sauce, using for it one-third cup butter, one-half cup flour, one-half teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon white pepper and one and one-half cup hot milk. Cook in double boiler until thick and smooth. Remove from fire, add one beaten egg and two and one-half cups chopped chicken. Turn out on plates to cool; then shape in croquettes; roll in fine crumbs, then in beaten egg diluted with cold water and again in fine crumbs. Fry in deep, hot fat; drain and serve hot.

Chicken Loaf—Mix one cup cooked chicken, chopped, and one cup cooked veal (or a mixture of lamb, veal, ham, etc.) Add one cup fine, soft bread crumbs, one teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon celery salt, two teaspoons chopped parsley, two well-beaten eggs and one cup milk. Mix thoroughly; turn into a well-buttered loaf pan and bake for thirty minutes in a moderate oven.

Note—In giving recipes for using left-over materials to which seasoning has been added in the original cooking, no definite amount of seasoning can be given. "Judgment" and "taste" must be the guide in the amount to use.

WINTER ITCH

Winter itch must be something fierce from the descriptions that are pouring in and the requests I am getting to write on it. You can see from my opening remark that I cannot give you anything from personal experience, and I am sorry because if I ever had it I probably would be able to help you more.

You usually find that physicians who have had certain ailments themselves are very apt to have an inexhaustible knowledge of the subject. For instance, the reason I know so much about the subject of controlling weight is because it has been an intimate life-long problem of my own. But this is not helping your itching, so we will see what the different authorities say on the subject.

Winter itch is a form of pruritus (Pruritus Hiemalis is the technical name). The word pruritus simply meaning itching without apparent cause. For instance, if you have eczema and it itches, or if you have scabies due to the itch insect and it itches, there is a definite cause. These condtions would not be known as pruritus. However, there is a cause for itching or for any disagreeable sensation in the body, and the thing for you to do is to go on a still hunt yourself and track it down.

Winter itch, as its name implies, is an itching of the body or parts of the body during the cold months and it usually is noticed only in climates where there are wide changes in temperature.

The sensations are prickling, creeping, or crawling, and the itching is so great that the sufferers say they feel as though they could claw the flesh off. Metal hair brushes and combs and other instruments are sometimes used to get relief. Of course, this simply makes matters worse, for this causes a real inflammation of the skin and then the sufferer has a double burden.

Now about causes. We know this, that gastro-intestinal disturbances can cause inflammatory conditions of various sorts in the skin. We know that in diabetes the skin itches and its resistance is lowered so that boils and pimples and other skin disorders may result. We know that when there is trouble with the liver or gall bladder, and jaundice results, there is itching of the skin. We know that disorders of the nervous system brought on by the abuse of tea, coffee, tobacco, alcohol and opium, will produce itching. So perhaps this winter itch from which so many seem to suffer, may come from some general disorder.

Woolen underwear seems to irritate some skins very much. In this case linen or silk underwear should be worn next to the skin; if woolens are necessary they should be worn over these.

A lotion of ointment containing from two to five per cent of carbolic acid is a standard remedy for local itching. Some find relief with a saturated solution of boric acid. General baths with baking soda, about 10 ounces to the ordinary tubful of water, or hydrochloric acid baths, one ounce to the ordinary tub of water, help some. The skin should be patted dry and not rubbed. One skin specialist advises smearing it with vaseline or cocoa butter afterward, followed by powdering with cornstarch.

Carbolic acid lotion, made with one-half ounce carbolic acid to the pint of water and one ounce of glycerin, is also recommended. Lotions of bicarbonate of soda, one teaspoonful to the cup of water, or acid lotions such as vinegar or lemon juice may relieve. Peroxide of hydrogen is also highly recommended.

If I suffered from winter itch I would omit tea, coffee, alcohol, etc., balance my diet to be sure that I was getting the proper elements to maintain general health, do some good setting-up exercises every day, have a supply of fresh air night and day, love my neighbor as myself, and quit scratching.

THEATRES

The Glendale

"Forget-Me-Not", the Metro film at the Glendale Theatre today, is a story of faith and love and yearning for happiness that is thoroughly human from beginning to end. It depicts the life story and love story of two little waifs left in an orphanage by their mothers as babies. One of them is played by talented and popular Gareth Hughes, the other by sweet, homey, equally talented Bessie Love.

The story these two unwind, as the film reels off its realistic shadows on the screen, is one so tender and sympathetic that there is a constant tug at the heart strings.

It is a story of the meeting of these children's paths, of the long divergence, while they become of unequal stations in life, and then of the ultimate reunion, and happiness that will leave tears in the eyes of the spectator.

The T. D. & L.

Excellent drama is "The Dangerous Age," John M. Stahl's First National attraction that began a two day engagement at the T. D. & L. Theatre yesterday.

The picture contains so many features worthy of favorable comment that it is difficult to point out the best. Story, cast, direction, photography, settings—all are superb—blended into "The Dangerous Age," form a film of irresistible appeal.

We have often read of "all star" casts, but we have seen few that came nearer earning that appellation than the present one, which contains such remarkable talent as Lewis S. Stone, Cleo Madison, James Morrison, Helen Lynch, Edward Burns, Edith Roberts, Myrtle Stedman, Ruth Clifford and Richard Tucker.

JESUS' NAME IS TEXT FOR SERMON

Dr. Funk Tells Congregation How Glory of Creator Is Perpetuated

"The Name Called Wonderful" was the subject for the Christmas sermon by Dr. Funk at the First Lutheran church.

"It has always been the custom of peoples and nations to begin numbering the days from the time of some great feast or festival, or from some great event that overshadowed all others in the magnitude of its importance. Thus it has come to pass that you and I, and all the civilized nations of the earth, are reading and writing in every letter, paper and magazine, 'A. D. 1922.'

"Six thousand years ago the first Adam was brought into the world by the creative power of the Almighty. But, alas! Adam fell. For four thousand years, according to the Word of the Lord, the prophet and the priest had proclaimed the message of hope, that God would raise up one who would deliver his people Israel. Thirty-nine books of sacred writ, together with the corroborating evidence of profane history, are filled with prophecies concerning the name, the place and the time for His birth. Not only so, but twenty-seven books abound, in overwhelming testimony to the fact that He was born in Bethlehem of Judea, just as the prophets had declared.

FAITH IN CHRIST IS KEY TO LIFE

Rev. Brooks Says Next to Believing in Lord We Should Know Him

"Next to believing in Christ, the greatest thing is to know assuredly what it involves—the possession of a spiritual life that is eternal," asserted Rev. Keith L. Brooks Sunday morning in the council chamber at the city hall before the men's bible class of the Presbyterian church.

"We may have possessions but fail to get any joy from them because we do not know that we have them," he continued.

"Years ago, an aged Indian wandered half naked into a western settlement, begging for food. Someone saw a ribbon about his neck to which a small pouch was suspended. He said that it was a charm that had been given him in his younger days. They opened it and found that it contained a greasy paper which proved to be a regular discharge from the federal army signed by George Washington, entitling him to a life pension.

"What a picture of one possessing the promises of Christ yet not realizing what they mean. A man's salvation is not according to his feelings but according to the testimony that God has given His son."

Ministers Meet to Discuss Arbuckle

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 26—Members of the Los Angeles Ministerial Association gathered at 11 a. m. today at the Y. M. C. A. for a further discussion of the action of Will H. Hays in declaring Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle reinstated as a film star. While the ministers refused to forecast what action might be taken at their meeting, it was assumed they would make an effort to strengthen the stand taken a few days ago when they decided to fight against permitting Arbuckle or his pictures to appear in any public theatre.

BALL TEAMS ARE SEEKING TALENT

American League Squads Are Making Efforts to Secure Strength

By DAVIS J. WALSH
For International News Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—Three of the four probable pennant contenders in the American league race next season are making rather feverish attempts to mend fences before the start of the coming campaign. The fourth seems to be standing on its flat feet at parade-rest.

The latter is the St. Louis Browns and it is significant that of all the trades, rumored, alleged and otherwise mentioned at the Louisville and New York meetings not by the slightest suggestion were the Browns involved in any way. Seemingly, they are quite satisfied with a slightly porous condition on the left side of the infield and a two-man pitching staff.

The other contenders are by no means static, however. The Yankees expect to have a real hander on their pitching staff when they come into possession of Jake May, coast league star. Failing in this, which is not likely, they will reach over into Boston and separate Harry Frazee from Herb Pennock by fair means or foolish. Further than that, the Collins deal with the White Sox still clings to a semblance of life.

Look Good on Paper

The Sox themselves are believed to have improved 20 per cent between seasons with the acquisition of Willie Kamm, the expensive bit of luxury from the coast league, and are figuring on getting a first string pitcher from the Yanks in case Eddie Collins is going on a long journey. On paper, the White Sox are no worse than third next season.

Ty Cobb is thought to have improved his Tigers quite a little by getting Del Pratt and Rip Collins from the Red Sox, and in a recent deal with Washington, giving "Chick" Gagnon, a young man who has yet to show, for Ray Francis, who appeared to be quite a plausible left hander last season, his first on the big time.

Just what the Browns are figuring on, if anything, is not known, but it is no star chamber secret that they need pitchers no more than Paderewski needs a haircut. Urban Shocker proved conclusively at the fag end of the 1922 season that he cannot stand up under the strain of pitching every third day and therefore must have more help from the rest of the Brown staff. Pruitt probably will have another good season, but just what Bayne, Van Gilder, Culp, Davis and others may show equals X—the unknown quantity.

The Browns could use a young, hustling third baseman. Perhaps they think they have him in Eddie Foster, who came into baseball along about the time "Goat" Anderson had finished his clean steal of second with the bases drunk. Eddie is not quite that venerable, but he is not far from the inevitable edge. Frank Ellerbe may come back next season, but he is neither the best third baseman in the world nor the worst. Merely a ball player.

From our non-essential point of view, the Browns have no more license to stand pat than a man with a lone pair in a raised pot.

Mrs. Brattain Gives Annual Xmas Party

Mrs. Pearl Keller Brattain played god fairy to 400 children and mothers and fathers Saturday afternoon when she entertained at her studio at 109-A North Brand boulevard with the annual Christmas party for pupils in her dancing classes.

Two large Christmas trees were arranged on the studio stage and an entertainment program was given by the pupils. At the close of the program each child received a gay colored balloon.

The program was: Christmas story, "The Child Angel" by Marjorie Turner; dance, Helen Orr; dance, "The Pierette" by Katherine Sonntag; reading, "My Uncle Bill" by Alverta Small; dance, "The For-get-me-not," by Marian King; dance, "Highland Fling" by Eleanor Marek; musical reading, "Who Will Buy My Dolly?" by Vivien Melone.

Dance by Elizabeth Hoffman; dance by Gould Moore; "Gavotte" by Ethel and Harold Barhite; recitation, "Jes 'Fore Christmas" by Katherine Jane Bruner; dance, "The Girl Who Smiles" by Blossom Moore; sword dance by Elizabeth Turner; Chinese dance by Cecilia Mae Fischer; dance by Marie Brown; group dance "Valse Caprice" by intermediate class.

Ex-Service Men at Sawtelle Remembered

Mrs. Florence R. Padelford, of the relief committee of Lester Meyer chapter, War Mothers of America, carried Christmas cheer to about forty ex-service men at Hospital Annex No. 1, Sawtelle, on Christmas day.

Each buddy received a box containing a "dressup" shirt, a necktie, two pair of hose, a package of home made candy and a brand new spic and span, nicely pressed one dollar bill.

On the return trip, other ex-service men were visited, many of them men with families, and gifts and good things to eat were distributed.

Prince Andrew of Greece, brother of former King Constantine, and his wife, Princess Alice, a cousin of King George of England. Prince Andrew was tried by a courtmartial on charges of treason in losing the war with the Turks, but was spared the death penalty, suffered by others. He and Princess Alice were banished from Greece for all time and they are now on their way to England. Insert: Colonel Plastiras, the director of Greece today, chairman of the revolutionary committee. Colonel Plastiras signed the order creating a revolutionary tribunal which tried Prince Andrews and condemned him to exile.

Borrows Children To Enjoy Xmas Tree

Mrs. C. M. Tunison, 525 Salem street, borrowed the children of the neighborhood yesterday afternoon so that she could have a Christmas tree, for Christmas parties are so much more jolly if there are little tots there to enjoy it, she says.

Fifteen or more wee ones about six years old were present. Before any of them could play any games they had to receive their presents and open them. After that the rest of the afternoon was devoted to kindergarten games.

Bomb Suspect Will Be Deported by U.S.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—William Linde, alias Wolfe Lindefeldt, suspected of complicity in the Wall street bomb explosion two years ago, will be deported to Poland on the first available steamship, the department of labor announced this afternoon.

Lindefeldt is now at Ellis Island, New York, where he was detained by immigration officials when he was brought back to the United States from Warsaw under guard.

Officials at New York refused to admit him to this country on the ground that he was likely to become a public charge. This decision was affirmed by a special board of inquiry at Ellis Island. Lindefeld appealed to the department of labor here.

New Tangle Occurs In Murder Mystery

PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 26. — New complexities were added to the alleged "houseboat murder" today when Chief of Police Jenkins made public a letter signed "Jane Doe" in which the writer states she is the girl whom Mrs. Helen Leary insists was murdered last September by Cash Weir, waterfront habitue, and his son Earl.

"I am the girl who is supposed to be at the bottom of the river," the writer stated. "I simply had to write this because I can't see old Cash Weir hanged for a crime he didn't commit."

The writer brands Mrs. Leary's story as a complete fabrication.

Doctor Is Arrested On Murder Charge

BALTIMORE, Dec. 26.—Dr. B. M. McKoin was arrested in the city shortly before 4 o'clock on orders of Governor Parker of Louisiana, charged with murder.

Dr. McKoin is taking a special course in urology at the Brady Institute, Johns Hopkins university, and is night accident physician at the Mercy hospital.

Dr. McKoin before his arrest advised Sheriff Carpenter of Merrouge, that he would be in the Louisian town before January 5.

Eight Persons Die From Poisoned Liquor

NEW YORK, Dec. 26. — The death toll from poison liquor drunk here during Christmas celebrations was brought up to eight this afternoon. Two of the victims were women. All were poisoned by drinking "hootch" containing wood alcohol.

The victims were Thomas McNamara, Minnie Schreiber, John Glennon, Joseph Page, John J. Burns, Elizabeth West, Frank Held and Charles Bennett.

DENY FURTHER ARRESTS

BASTROP, La., Dec. 26.—No more arrests will be made as a result of the investigation into the kidnaping and murder of Watt Daniels and Thomas Richards until January 5, when Attorney General Coco will hold a public hearing of all evidence, according to the belief expressed by officials today.

Department of justice men who have been on the case for three months are still working out of Merrouge, and they are expected to cause an expose that will place many prominent citizens behind prison bars.

Every suspect in Moorehouse parish, it was stated, is being closely watched, and a suspicious move or attempt to get away would result in instant arrest.

FAMED HAWAIIAN VOLCANO BOILING

Mauna Loa Showing Signs Of Periodical Outbreak, Says Scientist

By IRENE CORBALLY KUHN
For International News Service.

HONOLULU—Mauna Loa, the Vesuvius of the Hawaiian islands, is due for another great eruption.

Such was the prediction of L. W. de Vis-Norton, celebrated on the islands as a local geologist, based on native tradition as has been handed down by Princess Kohanumokua.

Mauna Loa, famed in song and story, will erupt next spring, prognosticates de Vis-Norton.

De Vis-Norton bases his prophecy on the nine-year theory of the eruption of Mokuoweoweo, the boiling pit on the summit of Mauna Loa.

That great cauldron, the second largest active volcano in the world, has belched forth molten lava every nine years since science was first attracted to this famous volcanic zone.

Supports Theory

Professor Thomas A. Jaggar, volcanologist, who is now at the Volcano House on the big island, supports the theory.

Mauna Loa erupted last in September, 1916. The eruption was followed by the periodical lava flow in 1919. The theory is that the lava breaks out of the summit in these cycles of nine years and is followed by a flow out of the side. Should the theory be borne out in the spring as in former years the eruption will occur in 1923 and the subsequent lava flow in 1925.

The other pit of Kilauea, on the side of the mountain, Mauna Loa, is steadily rising and shows considerable gain after each rise. The lake of lava in the southwestern corner of the pit is rising now at the rate of six feet a day and is expected to show its greatest activity between December 15 and December 22, when a large group of visitors from all over the islands is planning to visit the volcano.

Although the lake of lava in the pit is continually rising and is overflowing on the northern edge, where the sides are lower, the pit does not present an alarming spectacle, for the lake is so far down it looks tiny from the edge of the crater. The air is very clear, however, and the bottom of the pit can easily be seen. The floor is at a depth of 600 feet now. The rim of the crater is nearly two miles in circumference.

Slight earthquakes are being felt in the vicinity of the volcano almost constantly now, and these give further credence to the belief that an earthquake will occur in the spring.

Oldest Telegrapher In Country to Quit

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 26.—"Thirty" was sounded today for the oldest telegrapher in the country when the state railroad commission granted a commercial company permission to close its Visalia office.

This permitted J. C. Ward, an active operator for more than six years, the man who taught Thomas A. Edison the Morse alphabet and General Grant's operator during the Civil war, to retire.

Edison, then a train "newsie," used to spend his spare minutes in Ward's office at Mt. Clemons, Mich., mastering the telegraph code.

Manila Police Have N. Y. Style Clubs

MANILA—The chief of police of the city of Manila has under way a plan to equip the night police with special night clubs similar to those used by the police of New York City. These clubs are so constructed that when struck against a wall or pavement they produce sufficient noise to be used instead of whistles in calling aid. The sound produced can be heard over a considerable distance.

GERMANY APPEALS TO U. S.

BERLIN, Dec. 26.—Germany is appealing directly to the United States to act as intermediary between Germany and France, it was learned here this afternoon in authoritative quarters.

The German proposal which has been made through regulation diplomatic channels, calls for the creation of a four-power pact which, however, would not include the United States. Germany wishes to safeguard her western frontier. The suggested treaty would prevent any further military encroachments upon German soil, if generally ratified.

SEEK 'TIGER WOMAN'

LOS ANGELES Dec. 26.—With Sheriff W. I. Trager scheduled to receive the report on conditions in the county jail in connection with the escape of Clara Phillips, the relentless hunt for the "tiger woman" went ahead with renewed vigor today.

Deputy sheriffs who have been handling the hunt since the escape have been working quietly on several "tips" which may lead to something material within the next twenty-four hours, it was said.

SURRENDERS TO POLICE

RICHMOND, Cal., Dec. 26.—William T. Price, 25, who said he is wanted for participation in the robbery of a bank in Hulbert, Okla., on January 26 of this year, today surrendered to the police here. Price told the police that his two brothers, who assisted him, were killed in a recent holdup. The police are holding Price for investigation.

GOVERNOR ALLEN FIGHTS ILLITERACY

Less Learning in Some Other States, But Official Wants Improvement

By KENNETH HARRIS
For International News Service.

KANSAS CITY, Kan., Dec. 26.—Now that the time is nearing when he will loosen his hold upon the executive reins of the "Sunflower" State, Governor Henry J. Allen has started a drive which he hopes will ultimately stamp illiteracy entirely from the State. Not that Kansas' percentage of illiteracy is necessarily high—in fact, a recent census revealed that it is only 1.6, compared with one other State which, the census showed, has a percentage of 21.9.

Governor Allen pointed out that the near future will see laws enacted by the State Legislature which will provide for a wider dissemination of knowledge in the remote country districts — the towns, hamlets and villages which are more or less segregated from the big industrial centres.

Point With Pride

Statistics compiled recently disclosed that out of a total of more than 22,000 illiterate persons in Kansas above the age of ten nearly 21,000 were those of voting age.

It was further revealed that of these illiterates 10,450 were of foreign parentage, and more than 4000 are negroes.

Native sons and daughters of Kansas point with pride to the fact that in the last twelve years there has been a decrease of .6 per cent in illiteracy in their state, while census figures from several other states for that period indicate a slight increase in ignorance.

Revealed with War

During the World War, when men were inducted into the military service of the nation, the various tests to determine and sift out the illiterates revealed some significant figures as to the number of men throughout the country who were not even able to read or write their own names, according to Governor Allen. These tests revealed that 75 per cent of America's "flower of manhood" were among the mediocre intelligent, while nearly 25 per cent failed to pass the simplest tests and were classified as illiterates.

The Governor expressed himself as hopeful that his efforts to increase the intelligence of Kansas' future men and women would have the support of those who succeed him in office and that they would "carry on" the battle to such an extent that Kansas will within the next few years be an exemplary State—a pattern of "better education."

Ex-Empress Zita to Sell More Jewelry

VIENNA—According to Vienna papers, ex-Empress Zita has lately been reduced to such financial straits that she is obliged to sell some more of the Austrian crown jewels which the former imperial family took with them into exile.

At present two of the most valuable diamonds—the renowned "Badener" and the still larger "Frankfurter," one of the most precious stones in existence—are said to be up for sale. Owing to the present stagnation in the international jewel trade prospective buyers for such valuable stones have so far been scarce.

Flowers Sprout in Pair of Curtains

ZANESVILLE, O.—Mrs. M. J. Kerr washed a pair of unbleached curtains. They were white, she said, when she took them off the line. When she started to iron them, however, she found one pair blooming with pink flowers, it is said. After the curtains were ironed the flowers became very distinct. Mrs. Kerr said it was the second time the curtains had been washed.

Covering Wires

Electric tape is not the best material with which to patch a leaky insulation on the high-tension wires, as it is loosened by oil getting on it. This is because oil dissolves the rubber compound which makes it stick. Use ordinary cotton tape to bind up the breaks in the insulation and afterwards apply shellac liberally. This does not look so well but makes a more satisfactory repair.

Load on Chassis

To distribute loads evenly on an automobile, the driver of the car should assign seats to the passengers. Baggage should not be placed on one side of the running board when there is nothing on the other. An unbalanced car makes it difficult to drive, particularly on soft or wet roads, and is hard on springs.

Rays of Lamps

When a car is used for night driving, head lamps should be properly focused. Place the car in front of a white wall so that the lamps face the object at a distance of twenty feet and try the effect of changing the adjusting screw back and forth until the best effect is obtained.

Without Tire

When a tire goes bad and there is no other to replace it, it is better to run on the rim than on the felloe band. The band is quite thin and easily bent. Any damage to it will be transmitted to the wooden felloe, which will make a much more expensive repair.

MAN'S ORIGIN IS DECLARED DIVINE

Rev. Mullen Says Mankind Of High Descent Will Get Like Destiny

"Man is of divine origin," asserted Rev. H. C. Mullen Sunday morning at the Pacific Avenue Methodist church.

"Man is of high descent and was made for a like destiny," he continued. "He sprang from God and has kinship with Him, but has failed to live up to his rank. From the heights of a son of God man has descended to depraved appetites, vile passions, corrupted imagination and enslaved will.

"Man is a prodigal in the 'far country' who has 'wasted his substance' in riotous living. Man is the broken chord in nature's harp. Of all creation man alone introduces discord and disruption. He alone is disobedient to the will of his Creator. This is not fiction, but fact. You need not read history for proof. Witness the record of crimes reported daily in the press.

"If the foregoing is true, man has failed, and failed at the summit of his being—in his moral and spiritual nature. It is realization of this failure that has set the soul of man aflame wtih desire for help in his moral and religious life."

Many Escape Death In Apartment Fire

PORTLAND, Dec. 26.—More than 150 persons narrowly escaped death or serious injury in an after Christmas fire which early this morning gutted the four-story Lillian apartments here. All were forced to flee in scanty attire and lost personal belongings. The fire, starting in the basement, belched flames and smoke to all corners of the building.

A mother and her 2 year old daughter jumped from a second story fire escape landing and were caught by a passer-by. Neither was injured.

Firemen carried a score or more of women and children from the burning structure. The loss approximated $75,000.

Prohibition Agent Is Shot and Killed

STEUBENVILLE, Ohio, Dec. 26.—Shot through the head and back, the body of Charles "Dixie" Blinn, prohibition enforcement agent, was found early today in the Marsh alley, a dark thoroughfare in the heart of Steubenville. Blinn had died instantly.

The shooting is attributed to Blinn's activities in enforcing the Crabb act and his life had been threatened a score of times, police say. They are without a definite clew to the murder. Blinn had been conducting numerous raids in all sections of Jefferson county.

State Confident of Securing Conviction

MERROUGE, La., Dec. 26.—The state of Louisiana is so confident that its case in the kidnaping and murder of Watt Daniels and Thomas Richards is strong enough to convince even those who may sympathize with persons accused of the crime that it will not ask for a change of venue when the preliminary hearing begins, it was declared today. This hearing has been definitely set for January 5 at Bastrop. It was reported Governor Parker would ask for a hearing at some other place, but it is not believed here.

Sausage Leads to Capture of Thieves

DUBLIN.—A sausage was the clue that led to detectives arresting three robbers here. Three young men entered a cigar store and held up the man behind the counter. They had taken some cigarettes when an alarm caused them to bolt, leaving behind a cycle carrier in which they had placed the cigarettes. The detectives on examining the basket found a solitary sausage. A search of the sausage makers' shops in the city soon revealed the ownership of the bicycle, with the result that the messenger boy and two of his companions were captured.

Three Ships Missing On Atlantic, Belief

LONDON, Dec. 26.—A report that three trans-Atlantic ships were missing was in circulation here today but was not confirmed. Lloyds' marine agency said they had not received news of any disasters at sea, although violent storms have been prevailing on the north Atlantic for several days.

Six Lives Lost in Holiday Festivities

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—Toll of Christmas day festivities here was six lives. The bodies of five men and one woman lie in the morgue today awaiting autopsies to determine whether or not death was due to poison liquor. Another victim, a boy of 14, is expected to recover.

DISAVOWS PRESIDENTIAL BEE

—Copyright, Underwood & Underwood

Samuel M. Ralston, Democratic senator-elect from Indiana, who defeated Albert J. Beveridge in the November election, arriving in the capital disavows any presidential aspirations. There has been a great deal of talk in political circles recently over the availability of Governor Ralston in 1924. "I'm not a candidate for president nor am I intending to be one," said Governor Ralston. JOHN STEVEN M'GROARTY GIVES ADDRESS AT COMMUNITY CENTER

Hold Impressive Ceremonies at Placing of Cornerstone at Sparr Heights

"Los Angeles is a roaring town!"

So did the famous Californian, John Steven McGroarty, author of the "Mission Play," characterize Glendale's neighboring pueblo, in an address delivered Sunday afternoon, December 24, at the occasion of the laying of the cornerstone of the Community Center building under construction at Sparr Heights, Glendale.

Automobiles and trolleys had emptied hundreds into this new and extensive subdivision, for the purpose of witnessing the exercises of which Mr. McGroarty's address was a part. By 2 o'clock, when the program was opened by the Elks' band with that spirited patrol, "The Blue and the Grey," nearly a thousand owners and prospective owners of property in this development, together with their families and friends, had assembled and the scene took on an aspect not soon to be forgotten.

Banked by Verdugo Hills

Over a foundation that gave some idea of the spaciousness of this magnificent structure being donated by the executives of the enterprise to the citizens who will make their homes there, rose a great tent sheltering alike the speakers' platform and the spectators' many rows of seats.

This platform was backed and flanked with a semi-circular arch of lattice work interwoven with holly, with a bank of American flags centered in the rear; and upon the large stage thus provided were, in addition to the chairs reserved for the speakers, some twenty seats occupied by the Elks' band, which furnished the fine selection of musical numbers that ran through the program.

Out beyond the rows of seats provided under the tent curved another semi-circle, this one of motors parked row upon row, lending to the scene the effect of a stadium or amphitheatre. While anyone lifting their eyes to "those green Verdugo hills" that rose there, in the hazy sunlight of that glorious December afternoon, to north, south, east and west, would have beheld another and vaster amphitheatre, built not by human hands, in whose warm, nestling hollow Sparr Heights will always rest sheltered and secure.

Seeks Life in Hills

It was in this setting that John Steven McGroarty, standing on that platform with a humorous smile playing almost continuously over his sun-bronzed face, and his eyes twinkling merrily, denounced Los Angeles not unkindly as a "roaring town."

"For," said Mr. McGroarty, "not all roaring towns are bad towns, and Los Angeles is a pretty good sort of roaring town, in a way. But you can't live to be 116 years old in a roaring town—so that's why some years back I quit living in Los Angeles and sought the hills."

In mentioning that particular age, Mr. McGroarty was referring to Senora Maria Verdugo Chavoya, who sat with him on the speakers' platform, beside Rev. W. E. Edmonds, Dr. Jessie Russell, Mayor Spencer Robinson and others. In introducing Senora Chavoya to the audience, earlier in the program, Chairman M. Walters, one of the donors of the building, had explained that she was the granddaughter of Jose Maria Verdugo, for whom that amphitheatre of hills takes its name, and who obtained the grant from Louis, King of Spain, in the Sixteenth century. In the archives of the San Gabriel mission is a record of the Senora's birth, made by some monk long since departed. It establishes that she entered upon the span of life that still is hers in the year 1806, when the whole of Europe was in the throes of the Napoleonic wars.

It was to this amazing span that Mr. McGroarty was referring, for Senora Verdugo was born in those life-giving hills that bear her name, and has drunk in for well over a hundred years something that seems almost medicinal about their high, pure, fragrant breezes.

Then Comes Glendale

Mr. McGroarty went on to say that when he left Los Angeles and sought the foothills, he thought he had left "roaring towns" behind forever—and then came Glendale, "a fine sort of roaring town but a roaring town, none the less. "And now comes Sparr Heights," he said, "and where these green Verdugo hills form their majestic amphitheatre, some day in the near future will be another roaring town—and I am beginning to wonder what lies over on the other side of the high Sierras! I may have to move again!

"But there is one compensation in towns, the right sort of towns, the warm-blooded, neighborly sort of towns. They foster the community spirit that is making our nation great. This is the sort of towns we want. Look out for the cold-blooded towns, the selfish, soulless, mercenary towns that take the strength and glory of our hills and destroy it. If towns of this latter type continue to thrive and continue to destroy the fine, virile manhood and womanhood the hills send to them, then America will go the way of Babylon. We don't want towns like that in California. We want towns that cherish and develop the gifts of the hills. And Sparr Heights, whose first structure to rise from this historic soil is a Community Center building, bids fair to be such a warm-blooded, neighborly town."

Community Center

These thoughtful remarks by John Steven McGroarty followed fine addresses by M. Walters, Dr. Jessie Russell and Mayor Spencer Robinson. Rev. W. E. Edmonds delivered the invocation. Mr. Walters stated that in the ceremonies of that afternoon he was welcoming the people who were to make Sparr Heights into a thriving community, but that from that day on they should feel welcome themselves and pass the welcome on to others. "The Community Center is your building," he said. "We want you to feel your proprietorship and exercise your rights in it. Let it always be what its name implies—a community center, where friendship and neighborliness meet in civic pride and good-will."

Dr. Russell then pointed out that a community center is a vital need in the Twentieth century American community. "The school is too large and staid," she stated, "and the home is too small and personal. The donors of this Community Center building for Sparr Heights aim to make it a common ground between school and home—a community clubhouse, of which every resident is inherently a charter member."

Mayor Places Cornerstone

Following Dr. Russell's address, Mayor Robinson, Glendale's "singing mayor," delivered a brief address and then laid the historic cornerstone, first embedding a niche in the lower tier of masonry for a tin box containing copies of The Glendale Evening News, the Mayor's address, together with certain other documents and photographs, preserving for posterity a record of the occasion.

As the slab of granite was lifted into place, to further preserve a record of the event in Glendale history a motion picture cameraman stood by cranking his machine on the scene. This is the inscription that will stand carved on that slab of granite, that the generations to come may know whom they owe for their civic center:

MANY 'VETS' ARE AIDED BY BUREAU

Disabled Soldiers Trained and Put Back Into Profitable Work

By J. L. MEDDOFF
For International News Service.

WASHINGTON—The work of rehabilitating former service men who were incapacitated during the world war is proceeding with gratifying success, Director Forbes, of the veterans' bureau, declared today in making public a part list of disabled soldiers fitted by the bureau to assume their pre-war status in the nation's life.

Outstanding in the list was the case of a Timothy Histon, who earned an average salary of $25 a week prior to his entry into the service. When discharged, Histon was suffering from the effect of gas and shrapnel wounds and came under the supervision of the veterans' bureau. He was given the opportunity to study law and accountancy and has just received an appointment to the office of the commissioner of internal revenue, at an annual salary of $2500.

"This," said Forbes, "is only one of the many successful cases of rehabilitation who have been placed in employment of the veterans' bureau."

Leads His Class

Frank S. Rowley, a veterans' bureau second year lieutenant at George Washington University law school, has led his entire class for two successive years, with an average of 90 per cent. Five vocational students under the supervision of the veterans' bureau at this school are among the first forty students, all of whom attained an average of 87 per cent or over. Of the forty-three students attaining the highest average in their studies at this law school for this year, five were veterans' bureau students, all of whom have made an average of 80 per cent or over, and seven of whom are within the first fifteen, leading their class with an average exceeding 85 per cent.

One of the bureau's recently rehabilitated veterans, totally blind, won first prize in poultry exhibition at the Huntingdon County, Penn., fair.

Prize Chicken Fancier

"He exhibited the winning Rhode Island red cockered, demonstrating that his physical handicap does not prevent him from conducting one of the best poultry farms in the country," remarked Forbes.

Rehabilitated by the veterans' bureau after ten months' training, Ashley M. Brown of Tacoma, Wash., has obtained a position as foreman with a lumber company at a salary of $200 a month.

Roy H. Kincaid of Alberson, W. Va., is receiving vocational training in agriculture under the supervision of the veterans' bureau. While in training he has made a record success in raising purebred Poland-China hogs, his stock at present being worth approximately $1000. Kincaid received ten first prize hogs at the Greenbriar county fair. He also has raised some very fine corn, some pure bred calves, several hundred White Leghorn chickens and some turkeys.

"He soon will complete his training," Forbes said, "and will be able to carry on successfully in his chosen vocation.

Ocean Liners Hard Hit by Big Waves

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—All ocean liners arriving here today showed damage from the most terrific storms that have swept the north Atlantic for years. Life boats had been washed away, fittings destroyed and port holes smashed. The wind blew 100 miles an hour, rolling up waves sixty feet high.

While no definite word has been received regarding disasters, it was feared that some ships had been lost at sea. Ships arriving here reported picking up fragments of wireless messages indicating that vessels were in distress and were in danger of foundering. The Red Star liner Zeeland arrived three days overdue with her rails and lifeboats smashed. The White Star Cedric which arrived Christmas day, was two days overdue.

Five Bandits Rob 'Frisco Station

ADA, Okla., Dec. 26.—Five masked bandits entered the 'Frisco railroad station at Weleetka, north of here, this morning, locked two telegraph operators in a box car, tried to blow open the station safe with a small charge of dynamite and set fire to a motor train which was standing at the station, while the crew and passengers were at breakfast a block away, according to a report to division headquarters here this morning.

The fire was extinguished, the operators released and all but $40 in cash was recovered. The men escaped. The train was put out of commission by the fire.
